For the third lecture of the Collegiate Institute Course the Committee in charge have reserved perhaps the most interesting subject of the series for the evening of April 11th, in the Assembly Hall. Forestry and referestration are questions that are engaging the attention of experts in all lands, and Prof. Wm. Saanders has admittedly carried his investigations and intelligent tabulation of results to a point as yet reached by few of his brother scientists.

William Saunders is an English-Canadian, having been born in Devonshire, June 16, 1436, and sattled in Canada 1848. He entered the drug business and established a manufacturing chemical business in London, Ontario. He did a great deal towards the founding of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and was its president for two years. In 1882 he became Public Anniyet for Western Ontario, and Professor in the Medical Faculty of the Western University of London. He assisted in founding the Entomological Society of Ontario, was its president 1833-6, and

James Melvin, whose real name was Frank Shelton, did not go away from Possum Ridge, as Louisa had advised him to do, but he had tarried on from day to day in the hope of seeing her again and promising himself that as soon as he had another interview with ber he would take his departure. His purpose in seeing her again was to make a strong and final effort to induce her to accompany him to some point in the far west where they would remain unknown and where, as he reasoned, they could lead safe and Melvin was silent a long time and deeply thoughtful. The coming of that stranger annoyed and worrled him. Turner's description of the man, though vague and general, suited very much to the description of one he did not care to see, the brother of the man whose life he had taken.

not care to see, the brother of the man whose life he had taken.

The claim of the stranger that he, too, had come there to prospect for mineral made his appearance all the more alarming to Melvin, for no one knew better than Melvin that no capitalists were going to waste money in useless prospecting in that section. That claim would do very well, he thought, to fool the natives with, but no one with ordinary business sense would believe it for a minute. He was half inclined to leave the Ridge at once, and had it not been for Mrs. Banks he would bave done so. He felt that even at the risk of his life he must remain there until he had succeeded in gaining one more interview with her. Strange how weak a man, strong in all things cles, can be when it comes to woman and love! By and by Melvin broke the silence by saying, "You said that man was here today, so I presume he is not here now?"

"You said that man was here today, so I presume he is not here now?"

Melvin arose and began to pace slow ly to and fro across the yard. His hands were crossed behind him, and his head was bent, and to all outward appearances his mind was busy with deep and serious thoughts. Turner watched him from under his shaggy brows, and he, too, was having some thoughts far deeper and far more serious than any one knew. After awhile Melvin stopped in front of Turner and asked:

"How, far is it over to Hi Jenkins'

"'Bout two mile, I reckon," Turner replied, "risin clost on to that anyhow You thinkin of goin over thar?"

"Oh, no. I have no business there," "On, no. I have no business there," Melvin answered disinterestedly. "I was just wondering how far it was. I guess I shall have to ride over to Beckett's Mill tonight, though. I presume the store will be open?"

"Oh, yes, the store'll be open." Then Turner added to himself, "All the store you'll want, vonng feller."

A RASH THREAT. Pap Sampson, coming down the street from the store, saw a woman dressed in musty black leave his house as he approached and walk away in the opposite direction. Her head was bent, and her attitude and movement gave unmistakable evidence that she was in deep trouble

As Pap entered the yard Mrs. Sampson appeared in the open front door, a look of troubled anxiety on her wrin-kled, homely, but kind old face.

"She did, Mirandy. I was a witness to the trade, an I mind it well."

"No, Pap," Jason said, "we can't have that. Thar's plenty of us jonnger men here. You jest set down in the shade somewhar an take it easy."

A SUPERFLOUOUS TOAST- CUT IT OUT

Hamilton Spectator: The toast list or the Irish Protestant Benevolent oclety's dinner at the Walder! hotel last evening showed a new depirtur—the toast of the Press was omitted. It is to be hoped that the fashion thus set will prevail. Press representatives who attend such social gatherings as that of last evening go there to work and not to make speeches. And it is quito evident, from the fact that the Press toast is always sat down low or the list that the people who attend these entertainments do not care particularly to hear about the press. THE RACCOON STOLE THE TRAP

And Caused a Number of South Op-Boys a Heap of Trouble.

They had some fur lately out on the farm owned by Mr. S. Parkin, South Ops. A raccoon walked away South Ops. A raccoop walked away with the trap set for it, together with the rope and stake. After four days' search the animal was located high up a tree in the woods and the hunters peppered at it with a shot gun until tired without effect. Next day operations were resumed with a rille and a dozen amateur marks men, led by Albert Parkin. The tree was too large to climb and there was no ladder around to enable them to get up to the raccoon after it had been riddled with buliots. The animal hong susponded irom a limb; oeed redded with builds. The ad-mal hung suspended from a limb; still fast in the trap. How to get the game down was a con-indrum which took hours to solve. Finally Herb, Farkin climbed an adjacent tree and after a score of shots sev-ered the animal's leg. The trap is still in the tree.

South African Force May Be Di vided Into Two Regiments.

MR. KRUGER ET AL AT UTRECHT

They Will Talk About Acting Prosiden Schalkburger's Peace Move Although They Cannot Understand Why Dewet Cannot Be Found-A Meeting of Burghers May Be Necessary to Peace.

Ottawa, April 1.—When the Minister of Militia returns to Ottawa from his trip to New York and Boston he will probably find awaiting him a despatch from the Colonial Office giving the details respecting the organization of the force of 2.—000 men to be despatched to South Africa. It is learned that in addition to the mounts required for this force 500 extra horses will be taken, making 2,500 in all. The general impression is that the force will be divided into two regiments, and it would not be surprising if the command of one were given to Major Cameron, who is now in South Africa with the Second Mounted Riffes.

BOERS TO CONFER.

Mr. Kruger and His Associates to Hole an Important Meeting at Utrocht-

The Flague, April 1.—Mr. Kruger, De. Well-informed people here ray den. Schalkburger's peace move. Well-informed people here ray den. Schalkburger was evidently influenced by the receipt of the news of the rosult of the Dutch note to Grent Irritain on the subject of peace in South Africa, and other despatches from here. It is known that his communications with President Steyn and General Dewet, which have, here-tofore been easily carried on, were interrupted by the recent British military movements, and, as it was necessary to communicate with Steyn and Gen. Dewet before any peace proposition could be formulated, Gen. Schalkburger had to apply to Lord Kitchener for a safe conduct. Considerable surprise is expressed here at Schalkburger's delay in getting in touch with Dewet, and it is thought something unusual must be behind it. But, even if the Orange Free State and Transvanl officials agreed to peace terms, it would be necessary for both republics to call a general meeting of the commanders, and submit the proposals to the burghers, before they could be submitted to Lord Kitchenet.

A Non-Political Banquet Which Was Most Successful Affair-How Canada's Products Are Taxed-Cheap Transpertation More Important to Canada Than Fas' "ransportation-St. Lawrence Route.

Quobec, April I.—The non-political banquet by the clitizens of Quobec to Hon, Chas. Fitzpatrick, Minister of Justice, at the Garrison Club Inst night, was a most successful affair, amongst those present, in addition to the guest, being Co. Wilson, Commandant of Quebec and President of the club; Mayor and Premier Parent, Solicitor—General Carroll, Massrs. Wm. Power, M.P. for Quebec Centre; Talbot, M.P. for Bellechasse, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier.

Mr. Fitzpatrick made a most important speech. After referring in a sympathetic manner to the death of Hon. R. R. Dobell and of ex-Mayor Fremont, formerly M.P. for the County of Quebec, he plunged into the great question of Canada's transportation, showing that, though it cost the Canadian furmers a milion dollars a year more than it did their American competitors to transport their dairy, live stock and agricultural produce to the scaboard, yet the exports of this closs of produce from the Dominion during the last five years had increased at the average rate of a million dollars a year. He dealt fully with the problem confronting this country of reducing the cost of transportation to a minimum. He contended that it was necessary to make the navigation of the St. Lawrence as safe to shifters as the streets of London were to wayfarers, and entered into details of the methods to be adopted for the methods to be adopted for the cost of transportation to a minimum. Canadian Fought Single-Handed Till Death Claimed Him.

These Gallant Canadians Had Been Separated From Their Column Pursuing Delarcy's Men-Total Boer Prisoners Captured 179-Among Them Commandant H, Kruger-Night Stopped Pursuit.

Night Stopped Paranit.

Pretoria, Transvaal Colony, March 28.—About 1,500 Beers, under Delarcy, Liebenberg, Kemp and Wolmarans, were within the area of Lord Kitcheuer's latest move, but although surprised by the rapidity displayed by the British troops, gaps in the latter's lines enabled most of the burghers to escape. The Boer prisoners totalled 179 men, including Commandant H. Kruger and exchandrost Neethling of Krugersdorp. From the first prisoners captured, it was learned that Gen. Belarcy himself was outside the actual cordon, having slept some distance westward. But Liebenberg, Kemp and other Boer commanders were inside the column of troops.

The first body, consisting of about 500 Boers, sighted at 10 o'clock in the morning, March 24, retreated at full speed, making for a gap between the British columns. A race for the opening ensued.

British mounted infantry, which had already ridden upwards of fifty miles, pressed their tired horses until they gave out, when the men jumped off and raced forward on foot. Some of the mounted men, however, were able to gallop right into the gap just ahead of the burghers, whom they met with a warm fire.

These troops also succeeded in driving back another body of 300 Boers, who were forced to desert the guns they had captured from the Von they had captured from the Von Donop convoy in February. The Boers tried to get through several openings, but on each occasion were forced to double back, until they ultimately found a gap and passed out of the British lines within sight of Klerksdorp. Night fell before the pursuing columns could overtake the Boers.

Kierksdorp. Night leil before the pursuing columns could overtake the Boers.

Five Canadians, who fell out of their column and tried to work their way back, were surrounded by a Boer force, and made a splendid defence But finally seeing their case was hopeless, four of the Canadians surrendered. The fifth, however, indignantly refused to throw down his arms, and continued a single-handed fight until he was killed. This was regarded as one of the most interesting events of the day.

An instance of the resourcefulness of the Boers was given by Liebenberg and several hundred men: Taking advantage of the contusion of the drive, he and his followers assumed a formation similar to that of a British column, and, moving close to one of the numerous gaps in the British lines, succeeded in reaching this opening before their ruse was detected, and got safely away.

The guns captured from Von Donop's convoy were brilliantly recaptured by the Scottish Horse, who charged up to the muzzles of the artillery and rode the Boer gunners off their feet before the latter had a chance to fire.

Liberals to Meet Boers.

Paris, March 29.—The Figaro yesterday says that it has strong reason to believe that an interview is about to take place between Lord Rosebery, Sir Henry Campbeil-Banman, the Duke of Devonshire and other Liberal leaders who are now in Paris, and Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal. The Figaro says Dr. Leyds reached Paris from Brussels Thursday night.

Rome, March 29.—The text of the appeal issued by the Pope for prayers throughout all Christendom, irrespective of seet, for the nastening of peace in South Africa, is creating much comment. As published in The Osservatore Romano, recognized as the organ of the Vatican as nearly as any paper can be, it reads:

THE INQUEST AT BRANTFORD.

No Theory Crystallized Into a Fact by the Evidence so Par-Adjourned Until April 21.

Brantford, March 29.—The adjourned inquest into the cause of the death of James Quirk was resumed Wedneeday evening in the Court House. Crown Attorney Wilkes was in charge of the case for the Crown. Detective Murray was present. No spectators were allowed at the session, except newspapermen. There was no room for the general public. No bit of evidence adduced crystallized a theory. The newst bit of evidence was Toole's statement that he had received a letter from a man in Detroit, known Another point also emanated from Toole, namely, that a stranger had called at the hotel on Sunday and had asked for Quirk. But Toole had not told Quirk of this circumstance.

The entire session, which lasted from 8 until 11.20 p.m., was taken up with the evidence of Kennedy, the hell boy, Mrs. Quirk, the widow of the murdered man, and John Toole, his neutron.

The report of the autopsy, which is in the hands of the coroner, was not made public, and Dr. Frank, who performed it, was not called up-

The Chief Justice, son of the Rev. Samuel S. Strong, sometime acting-chaplain to the forces in Quebec and rector at Ottawa, according to Morgan, was a student in Toronto under the late Honry Eccles, was called to the bar in 1849, and practiced for many years with Mr. Eccles. Also with former Chief Justice Taylor of Manitoba, the late Hon. James D. Edgar and Dr. John Hoskin. He was appointed a judge in 1869 and has been a member of the Supreme Court since its formation in 1874. He was promoted to the Chief Justiceship in 1892, on the death of Sir W. J. Ritchie.

LAKE SUPERIOR FAST.

Steamer Was Drawn Out of the Mud

But I lde Took Her Back.

St. John, N.B., April 1.—The Elder Dempster steamer Lake Superior is hard and fast on the mud bar in the harbor. Another effort was made yesterday afternoon at high tide to haul the big ship into deep water. Ten tugs took hold, and as they steamed the steamer was moved a couple of hundred feet up the harbor but the current soon carried her hack again. She is now partly in the mud, and, it is thought, rests partly on the rocks of the reef. The work of disembarking her 1,132 passengers progressed all day. The lightering of the cargo has not been started. Another effort to get the steamer off will be made before the cargo is touched.

The Charges Are Denled. The Charges Are Denied.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing to his paper on the matter, states that Mr. Thomas Southworth, a director of the syndicate, and Mr. H. F. Clergue deny that there is the slightest truth in the charges.

In several cases it is expected that contracts will be broken, and that tho men will be granted whatever they ask in order to have pending work completed.

New Theory of Cancer

New theory of Cancer.

TEA POSSIBILITIES.

It is possible for other dealers to secure as good a line of Teas as we do. Possible, too, for them to sell at prices as low as we do IF THEY BUY AS LARGELY.

But it is scarcely probable that other dealers will buy in as large quantities as we do because they haven't the output. For years we have devoted particular attention to our Tea business, and when we recommend a certain brand our hundreds of customers impose faith in our word.

Our Tea trade is a large one, but we are as keen to see it grow as we ever were, and keener still to spy out bargain values for tea lovens because of our increased experience in testing methods. Our buyer, Mr. Spratt, has visited the Montreal Tea market annually for 20 years.

You may find teas that have been doctored to look like ours, but the best is in the steeping. Foor teas lack strength and boquet, qualities our teas are famous for. We tave received some new lines which we can re-commend very highly.

As to remedies to prevent their rayages, the speaker said they usually enter-ed houses in spring, and were found in corpets just below windows. This would not injure the carpets and would destroy all these insects. If not convonient to take up the carpets, take a towal dipped in water, lay it, over the edges of the carpet and press a the edges of the carpet and press a hot irou over it. The steam produced by the heat will kill all the insects. Cracks should be filled up with plaster of paris, easily poured in when mixed with a little water. Into these and may be easily removed. Chests should be filled pretty well to the top, and made as anr-tight as possible. To get rid of all risk of motils, take a saucer, lay it on the top of the clothes, pour in a small quantity of bisuphide of carbon, then the top of the clothes, pour in a small quantity of bisuphide of carbon, the sint the box tightly and leave it. The carbon bisulphide was very volatile, and the vapor is very heavy. This vapor sank and gradually want all tirough the box, gradually want fail tirough the box, gradually want of it and killed every living thing. In using the bisulphide mutton must be used, as it is very infimmall; and exposive. The bottle should not be opened nead a light or fire. Otherwise there will be a "blow-up." In the open air, or in a room where a draft is blowing through, would be the best place. The fumes should be dispersed so as not to do any harm. When blankets were put in boxes the carbon bisulphide should be used.

Clothes moths were similar in character to the buffalo motils, and the same remedies would apply to both. One plan often adopted was to put the clothing in cold storage. A temperature of forty degrees served to keep the motils dormant. Chrystals of naphthalene sprinkled over the clothes kept out moths and prevented them inkying eggs. All druggiets kept it.

Plack bestles or cockroaches are another pest that infest some kitchens, especially damp ones. They are disgusting in appearance and spoil food by creeping over it. Powdered borax is very effective, placed wherever these insects are found. The foundation of fighting those insects was cleanlines. Smoking them cut is another remedy. Pyrethrum powder should be got, a little placed in a saucer, and the room tightly closed up. The pyrethrum should be lit just before the immares of the house go to bed, and by the morning the roughly and ones. Mr. Bell Postpones His Roply For Reaso -Debate on the Budget Continued-All Hope of Concluding Debate Before the Easter Holidays Abandoned - The Speakers on Tuesday.

Ottawa, March 26 .- All hope of concluding the budget before the Eas ter vacation has been abandoned, and the debate is approaching the stage when the average attendance of members barely exceeds the quorof members barely exceeds the quorum. At the opening of the House
Sir Richard Cartwright made a spirited reply to some charges made by Mr. Bell, that he had misquoted from a public document. The speakers on the budget were Messrs. T. O. Davis,
A. E. Kemp, R. F. Sutherland (Essex), Edward Hackett and Henri Bourassa. Mr. Bourassa adjourned the debate.

Sir Richard Cartwright. Sir Richard Cartwright.

Sir Richard Cartwright.

On the opening of the House Sir Richard Cartwright rose to make a personal explanation in reference to a charge by Mr. A. C. Bell that he had misquoted the Statistical Year Book. He said: I did not expose the matter yesterday afternoon, because I wanted to see how far stupidity and party spite would drive these gentlemen, and I also wanted to see that they should be so committed that there could be no possible quibbling, and no possible wriggling out of the position in which they placed themselves. I will proceed briefly to give the House the authority on which I made the statements with respect to what appears in the Statistical Year Book for the year 1889. The House will recoilect that I have used certain estimates of the population of Canada, in the course of my remarks on the budget, and I stated that those had been derived from the Statistical Year Book of the year 1889. The House will also recoilect that yesterday it was stated in this House that these sigures the year 1839. The House will also recollect that yesterday it was stated in this House that these figures were not to be found in the Statistical Year Book, that other figures were given, and a long deduction was made therefrom. Sir, I have here the Statistical Year Book for 1889. On page 116 of this valuable and veracious document will be found the following statement: "In the fiscal year ending the statement of June, 1887, the estimated population of Canada is given at 4,875,005 souls." Immediately thereafter, for the fiscal year 1888, the population is given at 4,972,101, and for 1889 the population is given at 4,972,101, and for 1889 the population is given at 4,972,101, and for 1889 the population is given at 5,075,555. Sir, that is enough in itself, but there is more also. I stated besides, that these hon, gentlemen, at least the predecessors of these hon, gentlemen, had carried out the calculation, at any rate as regards one year, and that they had produced the result of showing that in 1890 or thereabout the population estimated by them for Canada would exceed 5,200,000. I have here the trade and navigation tables for the year land and the find the amount of customs in the total duty collected for customs is put flown as $24,014,908. On the opposite page you will find the amount of customs duties paid per head of the population put down at $4.60. You will further find at the bottom of the page this statement: "The calculations in this column are based on the estimated population of the Dominion each year, as published by the Department of Agriculture, and stratistics in the Statistical Year Book. See page 116 and 180 of that book for 1889, the figures this year having been corrected to correspond with those in the said Statistical Year Book. See page 116 and 180 of that book for 1889, the figures this year having been corrected to correspond with those in the said Statistical Year Book. See page 116 and 180 of that book of 1894, the figures this year having been corrected to correspond with those in the Statistical Year Book amounted to 5,220,632. Sir, I leave the House to say who has falsified the statemen

Mr. A. C. Bell.

Mr. A. C. Bell. (Pictou) replied: I regret very much that I did not hear the first part of the remarks of the hon. Minister of Trade and Commerce, and, furthermore, that I am compelled to leave the city on the first outgoing train, and therefore, have not time just now to reply adequately to what the hon. Minister says. I regret that I am called away by circumstances over which I have no control, the death of a near relative, to go out of the city immediately, but on my return I will deal with this matter, and I trust that the question may be settled satisfactorily to the House and the country.

Mr. Blair said that, as there was the greatest divergence of opinion as to matters of fact, he suggested that the matter be left over until next session, and that meantine a commission be appointed to look into the best kind of eattle guerd to use, and once this was done, then make it compulsory on all railways to use it. On this statement by Mr. Blair a motion to adjourn the bill was carried.

The Hudget Debate.

Mr. Davis of Saskatchewan renewed his speech on the budget, declaring that the west was thoroughly satisfied with the present tariff and would resent an increase in duties.

Mr. Kemp followed. He dealt with the tariff, the trade and expendance, naching a reference to Imperial matters.

Mr. Hackett (P.E.I.) vigorously defended the National Policy, and pointed to its operation in the Maritime Provinces with pride.

Mr. Bourassa believed protection was forced in Canada by inside and outside circumstances. He condemned the preferential tariff, as tending to patronize the British and German manufacturers instead of the Canadias manufacturer and yet the Canadias manufacturer.

neculation as to the Adjournment-One Section Thinks Prorogation Will Come Early in May; Another That It Will Not Be Till the 23rd May - Ontario House Dissolved.

Ottawa, March 31.—This being a Government holiday, the customs of the month were made up Saturday. The revenue for March is therefore not for the full period of 31 days, as was the case last year. This makes the betterment which has occurred all the more gratifying.

The customs revenue for the nine months ending yesterday was $23,-598,608, as against $21,640,015 for the same period of last year, showing an increase of $1,958,592. For the month of March the revenue was $2,923,898, as against $2,640,234 for the same month in 1901, being an advance of $283,162.

It is estimated from present indications that the expense for the reations that the revenue for the present fiscal year will be $31,500,000, as agains $29,100,000 for the previous 12 months. The continued increase of revenue is such as to give the liveliest grounds for satisfaction.

speculation as to Adjournment

When the House reassembles on Tuesday Mr. Gus Porter, Conservative member for West Hastings, will resume the debate on the budget. The debate may possibly be concluded on Friday evening, but there is a likelihood of it going over till next week. Many of the members entertain the idea that there will be a revision of the tariff next session, and so are taking advantage of the present debate to put themselves on record. Opinions differ as to when the session will close. In some present debate to put themselves on record. Opinions differ as to when the session will close. In some quarters it is thought that the House will prorogue early in May, but not a few members are of opinion that business will not be wound up till the 23rd of that month. At present there seems to be no good reason why the session should be prolonged until the latter date. Once the budget is ended the supplementary estimates will be brought down, and there will doubtless be railway subsidies and one or two Government measures. There are, of course, numerous private bills awaiting legislation, but in five weeks from now the Parliamentary slate should be wiped pretty clean.

P.P. after his name. The provision of the act of 1901, extending the life of the House in case the Legislature should be in session on the 29th of March of this year, was not taken advantage of, as the House had concluded its business two weeks previously. No intimation has been given as to the date of the elections but from the recent statement of Premier Ross and the activity of both parties it is unlikely that much time will be lost in issuing the writs. Promier Ross will probably deliver an important speech at Newmarket on Friday afternoon in connection with the North York Liberal convention.

848,000 FOR THE POPE.

Cabled From New York to Rome as Part

New York, March 29.—Although the regular annual Peter's Pence collections have not been taken up yet in the Archdiocese of New York, the sum of $48,000 has been already forwarded from here to Rome for the support of the Pope. This money was obtained by levying assessments on each parish in accordance with its financial standing and was cabled directly to Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, on the day of the recent pontifical mass of thanksgiving for the Holy Father in St. Patrick's Cathedral, which was attended by all the bishops of the province. The acknowledgement of the receipt of the money was sent, it is said, by Bishop Farley, who is now in Rome.

Special effort is being made this year all over the world to establish a record in the amount of Peter's Pence offerings. It is thought that the total of the offerings from the New York Archdiocese will reach $100,000. The fee is one of the richest in the world and is said to contain about 1,000,000 Catholics, many of whom possess great wealth. The total of the Peter's Pence from all nations last year was $450,000. This country alone will probably contribute this year as much as all the world combined gave in 1901. The evacuation of three provinces is to be carried out in three successive periods of six months from the signing of the convention. The Times' correspondent says further that China is inclined to agree to Germany's demand for the extension of the railway from Tsinan Fu, in Shan Tung Province, across the Grand Canal at Te Chan to Ching Ting, on the Pekin-Hankow line.

Pekin, March 20 .- Chinese officials Pekin, March 20.—Chinese officials say that a thousand people have been killed in riots at Ta Ming Fu, the southernmost prefecture of the Province of Chi Li. This, perhaps, is an exaggeration, but the loss of life was undoubtedly great.

AN OBJECTION TO THE REFERENDUM.

A special objection urged by som extreme Prohibitionists against the Referendum is that some 215,000 votes will have to be polled by the supporters of the Manitobaj act, while the opponents need not poll a single vote. All the work and worry—all the trouble and expense—is thrown upon the Prohibitionists. The for the act is thrown upon them; and opponents need not cast a vote. No scheme that could be devised—even by the Angel Gabriel—would extreme Prohibitionists against

C. M. B. A. Entertainment 'A large number of our citizens ar indebted to the members of Lindsay Branch No. 77, C.M.B.A., for a de-Eghtful time enjoyed last Tuesday at St. Mary's Parish Hall. The good time began with an entertainment which proved to be one of the best yet given under the 12 pices of the pseudation. At the close of the program tempting refreshments were served by a bevy of young lady walters, and the social time thus inautgranted developed into a hop, which erded on the stroke of 12. Everyone enjoyed the affair greatly.

If yesterday's sad fatality will cause parents to realize the danger their young soms encounter in playing about or fishing near the dam —especially during the time of the spring flood—they will be spaced the anguish now being endured by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, Lindsayst., whose nine year old son was swept to his death yesterday by the angry waters.

The bereaved father and a number of friends spent the evening and most of the night on the river, deagging the channel with long-handled rakes and other appliances hastly improvised for the purpose, but without success. The work was resumed this morning and was continued all day. Farties also inspected the river banks at intervals from the Wellington-st. bridge to the Rathbun Co. mills, but no trace of the swiftness of the current many persons are of the opinion that the body has been swept far down the river. We are informed that were were in error yesterday m stating that no energetic effert was put forth by those who witnessed the accident. Young Cyril MeDonald, son of Mr. John McDonald, who was on the lock platform at the time, made a bold effort to eatch the bay as he was being swept out of the flume into the swift current, and Mr. Percy Cullon, son of Mr. Alex. Cullon, made a gallant attempt to reach the lad. Percy was working in the hold of the Maple Leaf when he heard some one on shore cry out that a child was drowning, and when he reached the deek the boy was when in the middle of the river almost opposite. Cullon ran cut onto a boom of logs reaching some distance into the stream, and towards which the boy was being some distance into the stream, and twards which the boy was being swept past the town wharf two boys secured a boat and pushed off to the river cullon plunged into the lee-cold water and struggled manfully to reach the lad, but without avail, and was in an exhansted condition when he regained the shore.

White Michael the nine year old son exploring the recesses of the root house on Menday evening he came across a small bottle containing about a tablespoonful of powder, and after retiring with his prize to the vicinity of the barn so as to be safe from interruption he struck a match and arropped it into the bottle. There was a sharp explosion and when the lad picked himself up he felt queer all over, while blood was dripping from this right hand.

His cries attracted attention and he was carried into the house, where he related the story of bis unlucky find and experiment. The powder had backened his face and singed his hadrand eye brows, while particles of glass and cut him in a number of places. One large piece lodged in the right pain near the thanb, and Dr. Shier had to be called in to extract it and dress the wound. In all the lad bore about fifty marks of the explosion.

Mr. Rhodes' Body Will Be Burled in the Mateppo Hills-Decoased Died at 5.57 p.m., Wednesday, With His Friends

Cape Town, March 27.— Cecil Rhodes is dead. He died pence-fully at 5.57 p.m. yesterday. Hi slept during the aftermoon, but his breathing became more difficult and his strength perceptibly diminished until he passed away. Mr. Rhodes was conscious until 5.55 p.m., when he muttered a few

Mir. Rhodes was conscious until words and sank quickly. The inuncdiate cause of his death was two successive attacks of heart failure.

The first public announcement of Mr. Rhodes' serious illness was made on the 6th instant. It was at first thought to be exaggerated, but was subsequently confirmed by statements that his condition was grave, and that he was suffering from neuralgia of the heart.
At his bedside were Dr. Jameson.
Dr. J. W. Smartt, the Commissioner and Mr. Walton of Port Elizabeth, a member of the assembly. Mr.

of his brother and some of the others present, which were meant to be good-byes. The only person who attended him during his illness and wbo was not present will avortably be buried at Matoppo Hills.

Since Mr. Rhodes took to his bed three weeks ago, his friends had been most anxious that he should recover sufficiently to be taken back to England. The cottage where he diod was a single seasific cabin, small, and close to the railroad. It was flightly to be a sick chamber, although the utmost was done to improve the ventilation and make it more comfortable. Dr. Stevanson slept by his patient every night, that he might be in readiness to administer oxygen, which practically kept Mr. Rhodes alive.

Last Sunday he lost ad interest in everything, and since then he dozed the hours away. His railly from the crisis of Tuesday left but the faintest hopes for his uttimaterecovery. These were entirely abundand with the renewed attack of mon yesterday.

The news of his death spread through Cape Town between soven and So'clock last evening, and causend profound grief. All places of amusement were immediately closed. An open-air concert was stopped, and the audience uncovered while the band played the "Dead sketch of His Carest.

The Rt. Hon. Cecil Rhodes, ex-Prime Minister at the Cape, was the fourth son of the late Rev. T. W. Rhodes, vicar of Bishop Stratford, Horts, and was born at that place on July 5, 1852. He was educated at the local school, acquitting himself there, one is told, creditably. Thence, the state of his health being a matter of some concern, he left England to join his eldest brother. Herbert, who was planting in Natal. On the discovery of the river diggings in Griqualand Wost, Mr. Herbert Rhodes took part in the "rush," and was shortly after, wards joined by his younger brother. Not long before this, Geolf Rhodes determined to obtain a university degree. He accordingly managed, while carrying on work on the fields, to do some randing, and to spend only of each year at Oriol. College, to qualify for his degree.

The hero of Khartoum appears to have had a liking for, and a high opinion of Mr. Rhodes, and before he started on his last mission to the Soudan, wrote to him, asking the young politician—for he was then in the legislative assembly—to join him as private secretary.

Getil Rhodes was one of a family of whom seven were sons. The eldest, Herbert was billed with a support of whom seven were sons. The eldest, of whom seven were sons. The eldest, Herbert, was killed while elephant lunting in the Shire District. The rost were nearly all soldiers, the second son being Cot. Frank W. Rhodes, D.S.O., who was educated at Eton, and until recently was in command of the 1st (Royal) Pragoons. He returned recently to Malabeleland to take Dr. Jameson's place as administrator during the latter's visit to Europe.

turned recently to Malabeleland to take Dr. Jameson's place as administrator during the latter's visit to Europe.

It is barely a quarter of a century slace Mr. Rhodes first landed at the Cape. Those who only know South Africa as it is to-day would find it difficult to realize the absolute commercial stagnation which ruled supreme before the discovery of the diamond mines in 1867. When Mr. Rhodes arrived he entered a country sunk into a veritable slough of despond, from which, however, the diamond mines were soon to extricate her. Along with C. D. Rudd, a Cambridge man, they purchased a quarter claim each in "Baxter's Gully," They accumulated wealth rapidly, and , it was not long before Mr. Rhodes was a millionaire. It was the reconcentration of the innumerable rival and divergent interests which originally existed in the various mines at Kimberley which made for Mr. Rhodes a European reputation as a financial diplomatist of the first rank.

In due course Mr. Rhodes entered the legislative assembly, and, on the resignation of Sir Gordon Sprigg, took the Premiership. He can claim to have added nearly three-quarters of a million square miles to the Britleh Empire. In 1896 and 1897 he padd several visits to England in connection with the Jameson raid, and his conduct in the matter was varieusly criticized.

Dr. Jameson, in a number of reminiscences of Mr. Rhodes, emphasizes the kindly feeling he always had for the natives, pointing out that he could not be charged with any harshness to the natives or any neglect of duty in his management of Rhodesia.

To Mr. Rhodes is due the credit of establishing peace in Matabeleland, when the natives were in revolt. He went into their very midst without any weapons, and by friendly counsel got the men to accept reasonable torms of settlement.

In 1898 he submitted a proposition for Imperial Federaction in the House of Commons in England, which found ready converts in Lord Rosebery and Parnell. The proposition was that every step towards closer union should come from the coloni Parnell. The proposition was that every step towards closer union should come from the colonies themselves, and that any colony should be able to send members to the House of Commons at Westminster if it desired to do so, the condition being that the number of members should be limited to a number proportionate to the colony's contribution to the normal expenditure for Imperlation purposes, that is, for the army and navy and diplomatic service.

London Comment.

London, March 27.—The estimates of the career of Cecil Rhodes and the effect of that career on the history of the British empire, are colored largely by the political views of the pupers making them. But the opinion is unanimous in the press here that in spite of the defects and the limitations of his forceful character, few men have more prefoundly impressed the imagination of their contemporaries, or played a larger part in the world's affairs than Cecil Rhodes, and the empire is poorer by his premature death.

Transvaalers Favor General Sur render of Boer Forces.

MR. KRUGER IS LOSING SUPPORT

Sir George Goldie Says the Most Serious Question to Deal With Is the Treatment of Bebels - 100,000 Men Necessary to Preserve Peace-Steyn's Confidence in Boers'

Wolvehoek, Orange River Colony, March 25.—The train having on board acting President Schalkburger and his party passed this place on its way to Kroenstad yesterday. The Transvani Government officials were accompanied by Captain Marker, Lord Kitchener's aide-do-camp, and five other members of the staff of the British commander-in-chief in South Africa. The impression here is that the Transvanlers favor a general surrender of the Boer forces.

Boess Fight Confidently.

Amsterdam, March 26.—Abraham Fischer, the Boer delegate, in an interview yesterday gives a variety of reasons why the Boers in the field should be in a mood to continue the war, rather than accept terms less advantageous than those praviously domanded. The latest reports from President Steyn, received under date of Feb. 15, says:

"Last year we fought hopefully; now we are fighting with confidence, not to the bitter end, but to a happy end." Boom Fight Confidently.

The Boer forces have plenty of everything except clothing.

Steyn is Central.

London, March 26.—Sir George Goldie, vice-president of the Royal Geographical Society, and founder of Nigeria, who has just returned from a thorough investigation of South Africa. In the course of an interview, Sir George said he was convinced that the question of peace or war rests in the hands of President Steyn, and that Mr. Kruger and the other Boers in Europe no longer represent Boer opinion. The real difficulty in the path of peace is the question of granting amnesty to the Cape and Natal rebels, and the promises of the British Government have not the slightest weight while the fighting burghers are in their present state of mind. Sir George Goldie advocates granting amnesty to the robels, but he insists that every one must be disfranchised for life. This, he claims, would go far towards allaying the bitteness of the loyalists. Sir George depreciates any attempt to permit the use of a dual language. He says English alone must be the official language, and adds that the fact that practically the whole of the rising generation of the two repulses and are rapidly learning English, will be of great aid in this direction. He estimates that 100,000 armed men will be needed in South Africa for some years after the conclusion of peace.

Talk of Independence Is Foolish.

Talk of Independence Is Foolish.

Talk of Independence Is Feelish.

London, March 28.—In regard to the latest developments in South Africa the Brussels correspondent of The Times says culightened opinion in Belgium is not in accord with Mr. Kruger and the Boer delegates as to the question of independence. The leading Belgian organs say that the protensions of the Boers to preserve their independence would be mere foily. The vague proposal to exchange the Rand for independence and the rest of the Transvaal is dismissed as equally impracticable. The arrangement now advocated is that the late republics be made British colonies, with sufficient autonomy to preserve a semblance of nationality, and it is urged that Great Britain should refrain from insistence on the idea of domination in the terms of surrender.

Possibility of Another Canadian Contin-

Costawa, March 26.—The rumors which have been in circulation here for the past couple of days in regard to the possibility of another Canadian contingent going to South Africa have crystallized into the statement that the Imperial authorities have asked for a mounted force of 2,000 men. It is stated that the matter was before the Cabinet yesterday, but strict reticence is observed as to the action, if any, which was decided upon. From what can be learned, the Imperial Covernment has suggested that the force should be equipped and transported at its own expense. The application will doubtless be acceded to, and should this prove to be correct transac a concribution of troops will be brought up to a total of 7,000 men.

London, March 26.—An acrimonious correspondence between A. J. Balfour and Gen. Buller has been published. Mr. Balfour contends that Gen. Buller was in chief command at the battle of Spion Kop, while Gen. Buller denies this assertion. To his contention Mr. Balfour adds: "There is no reason why all the Spion Kop despatches should not be published."

To this Gen. Buller rejoins that he hopes the despatches will be published without manipulation.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMUL-SION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

GIFT TO THE EMPIRE

Cecil Rhodes' Big Project for Imperial Education.

WILL TAKE BULK OF HIS FORTUNE

The Daily Mail's Statement of a Brillet Empire Builder's Fortune-Will Be Devoted to Fitting " Younger Britaln" to Cope With the World-Plan Embraces the Whole British Empire.

London, March 29.—The Dafly Mail says it is in a position to assert that Cecil Rhodes left the bulk of his fortune, outside of some personal and family bequests, to the promotion of his vast imperial plan of education. This project embraces every land where the Union Jack flies. Its purpose is the intellectual betterment of the British race throughout the world and the fostering of the Imperial sentiment. The Daily Mail adds that this idea of better fitting "younger Britain" to cope successfully with rival nationalities was long a dominant scheme with Cecil Rhodes, but that even his closest friends little imagined the absorbing hold it obtained upon him until this was disclosed by the terms of the will.

The details of this plan of education will be made public in a few days.

Some Spring Suggestions

WHY NOT PLANT FRUIT TREES FOR SHADE PURPOSES?

Sanitary, Nest and Well-Drained Back Yards a Necessity-Parks and Play-Grounds for Citizens and Children

Grounds for Citizens and Children.

In the last Issue of The Canadlan Herticulturist there appears a paper written by Miss Jessle M. Good, of Springfield, Ohio, in which many excellent suggestions are made for the benefit of Improvement Societies, organized in many towns in the United States to secure the Computer. United States to secure the co-oper ation of citizens in beautifying the streets and home surroundings. We make the following extracts for the benefit of Lindsay citizens:

If your town is bleak and unshaded, plant trees, but give a thought to what and how you plant. Because you love eline you certainly show, a selfish affection when you plant them twenty feet apart upon a street sixty feet wide, knowing, as you must if you love them, that the elm is one of the trees that need great space and moisture for its ful development. Few shade trees should be planted closer together than from twenty-live to thirty-live feet. Why not intersperse them with some ornamental flowing trees—red-buds, dogwoods, crab-apples, catalpas, etc? Why always plant forest trees for city shade? Why vot plant fruit trees? fruit trees?

What is the condition of your back gard and alley? Is the latter an im passable mire in winter and a weed lane in summer, or is it a well-grad ed, roll d and drained passage way is your back fard green with grass and gay with flowers, making it beautiful and wholesome place in beautiful and wholesome place in which your children may play? Or, is it a death-trap, adorned with a fragrant swill barrel, heaps of ashes and garbage, piles of old bourds, an untity fence, while the bare ground is socked with greasy dishwater, making it a place abhorrent to your children, as a player quad, and as children as a playground, and as unsafe from a sanitary point of view as a sewer? If you have such a back yard, let me tell you the day once yard, let me tell you the day is nearly over when educated people keep what some one has wittily called "Queen Anne fronts and Mary Ann backs." Can you wonder why Johnny and Willie prefer to play in the street instead of the yard? I think their preference for the street shows a proper instinct and good indement. judgment.

Does your grocer and fruiterer ev pose the foods he expects you to ear to the dusty contagion of the street It so, you should teach that yo never offer such contaminated foods to your family. If an organization of influential housekeepers speaks clearly upon this point, glass-covered boxes will be quickly provided that will show the goods quite as well. How about your dairy supply? In a certain town a shocking infant mortality was traced to the milk.
A weekly or fortnightly visit by a committee from an improvement association would have a deal to do with wholesome dairy premises. No educated woman of this ago dares to be indifferent as to the source of the food with which she supplies her family.

Have you parks and open square as breathing places for the people? Have you public playgrounds for your children? This one matter of public playgrounds in all towns is vital importance. When the infin-ence upon the character and morals of children of healthful play is fully understood, no money will be spared to provide such playerounds.

EDITORIAL NOTES,

Manitoba will vote on the Liquor Act referendem to-morrow, and the prospects are that a big vote will be polled. It is thought Winnipeg will give a majority against the act, but the rural districts of the Province are aid to be strongly in its favor.

A Woodstock by-law submitted to the ratepayers gat 740 votes to 268 against it, yet was defeated because 900 did not vote for it. The refer-endum proviso is not strange to Onario electors.

A New York magistrate has fined thirty-two men five dollars each for expectorating on the sidewalk. Most Lindsay people would feel satisfied if say five offenders were fined $32 apiece as a first warning.

Physicians who have expressed, themselves on the question of the use of boracic acid, formic acid, formalde byde, etc., as food preservatives, unan-imaously agree that the continued use of food cured with such drugs is ruinous to the human digestion. The nor-mal stomach is in no need of antiseptio treatment.

The 'Public Ledger,' of Philadel-phia, is not well informed in making the statement that reciprocity wit the United States is an insistent question in Canada. The fact is that public opinion here has become crystallized on the subject. Our people have ceased to bother over it one way or another, After the spectacle presented by Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines, which certainly have strong claims on Congress for fair, not to say generous, treatment, and the cruel repulse they have met with, Conada, which does not pretend to have any claims, save those of reighborliness and mutual advantages in trade, cannot hope for bet-ter consideration. The question of reciprocity has, therefore, been re-legated to a place among academic subjects of discussion, till wiser men at Washington may bring it within the region of practical politics. Canada is getting along nicely as things are, and has no desire to force her reighbor's hand.

The Irish bill introduced by the government in the Imperial parliament authorizes the taking over of an estate and the purchase by the tenants provided the landlord and two-thirds of the tenants are agreed. Mr. John Redmond, upon the intro duction of the measure, warned the government that nothing but the compulsory purchase of the land by the state and its transference to small proprietors will be acceptable. This too is the attitude of Mr. T. W. Russell and his Protestant and Unionist following in Ulster. With Mr. Russell this issue is a passion. As he said in a recent speech in Belfast, "the thing was in his blood. He was the grandson of an evicted tenant—a man who left his all upon a Scotch farm and went out upon the world penniless and ruined. His father was silent. The grandson had broken out. He had hated Irish land-lerdism since the day he first understood it, and every atom of energy he could command should be devoted to the work of ridding the country from its fell and evil influence

Love Letters Should be Destroyed.

Palmerston Reporter: A story is being told of a young lady not many miles from Tara who found a pack-age of love letters that had been age of love letters that had been written to her mother by her tather before they were married. The daughter saw that she could have a little sport and read them to her mother, substituting her own name for that of her mother's and a fine young man's for that of her father's. The mother jumped up and down in her chair, shifted her feet, and seemed terribly disgusted, and forbade her daughter to have anything to do with a young man who would write such sickening nonsensical stuff to a girl. When the young lady handed the letter to her mother to read the house becam's so still that one could hear the grass growing in the back yard.

NATURE REQUIRES ASSISTANCE DURING THESE MONTHS

To Help Throw off the Impurities That Have Accumulated During the Win-ter Months—Purgatives Should not be Used-It is a Tonic That is sons why people feel all out of gear in the spring months. Perhaps the chief of these is the long hours in chief of these is the long hours in imperfectly ventilated offices, shops and houses during the winter months. You may feel that there is nothing serious the matter; you are only a little tired after slight exertion, or perhaps your appetite is fickle, or Fittle pimples or eraptions on the skin show that the blood is not as pure as it should be. If you feel this way, not only your comfort but your health demands that you take proper steps show that the blend is not as pure as it should be. If you feel this way, not only your comfort but your health demands that you take proper steps to cleanse yourself of the blood impurities that are responsible for your-condition. (not settled) The above figures exclude officers, who will attend in the usual proportionate numbers—22 for instance, accompanying the 580 men from Australia and Canada. In short, troops are coming from every colony which has any, the great object being to secure as much diversity as possible, in order to evoke the true Imperial spirit through representatives from all parts of the British Empire, and to illustrate the great variety of races and climes over which His Majesty holds sway. As a matter of fact there is every reason to expect the colonial troops will be made the picturesque feature of the ceremony; these coupled, of course, with the 1,000 representatives from India's many regiments.

Some of the colonial troops will be mounted, but the majority will be infantry, and in all probability a high place of honor will be accorded to them.

There should be enough to line the whole south that the King will take infantry, and in air prosecutive shigh place of honor will be accorded to them.

There should be enough to line the whole route that the King will take on his way to Westminster Abbey, which, it will be observed from the recent decision of the Coronation Committee, is to be by the shorter course of the Mall, the Horse Guards, the Whiteball, while guards, composed exclusively of colonial troops, will be stationed at different places along the route to turn out and salute His Majesty as he passes.

Colonial sentiment in London is delighted with the tact and catholicity shown in the selection, and it is confidently expected that the list will give general pleasure, more particularly in the smaller dependencies which might conceivably have feared that in such a large scheme their stains would be overlooked.

There is no doubt that arrangements are in progress to give the colonial representatives the warmest welcome in this country, and there is little chance of any hitch, such as arose through the misunderstandings, in an isolated case or two, on as arose through the misunderstand-ings, in an isolated case or two, on the occasion of the jubilee. There is ings, in an isolated case or two, on the occasion of the jubilee. There is only a fear that the colonials may be overwhelmed with courtesies and kindnesses. Certain it is that the War Office, which can, when it likes, manage these matters with remarkable tact and ability, is doing its best to secure a welcome for one and all of the colonials, no matter their race or origin, which will leave an ineradicable recollection of how they were received in London at the King's coronation.

Cape War Veteraus.

Cape Town, March 31.-Mr. Cham-erlain has sent a despatch inviting the Cape Government to send a cortingent of four officers and 150 me tingent of four officers and 150 men to represent the colonial forces at the military displays in connection with the coronation.

The Government has not yet made its choice, but the Premier intends that the contingent shall be thoroughly representative of all corps raised by the colony in connection with the war.

The Sunbeam is 85 feet long, beam 18 feet, ond draught 4 feet. She was built for the lower lake passenger business, and during the last two feanous was on the route between Likefield and Chemong, connecting at points mentioned with the Trent Valley Navigation Co's stamer, Ogemah. She is of the propolior type, has powerful engines, and is licensed to carry 220 passengers. Her hull is of three-inch white oak planking and the work throughout is of the newt substantial character. We understand it is the intention of the new owners to place the boat in the excursion service. The craft is of a size that will permit her to pass through Roseiale lock, therefore a new route will be opened up to pleasurescekers. Excursions can now be planned to Coboconk, Laidhuw's Lending, Kirkfield and other points up the Trent Valley Canal, while there are dozens of delightful spots along the shores of Balsam Lake that are arknown to the people of this vicinity. TESTING THE WEIGHT OF GRAIN.

again than the test is rigorously applied, and the farmer makes up for the lightness of his grain to the nt-termost farthing.

The law of the Dominion requires that the test shall be made in a bushel measure. But as a matter of fact this provision is selicion, if ever, observed. The test is almost always made in a quart or two-quart measures is used. The Toronto Soaru of Trado only recently applied to the Government to legalize the system how in use. There seems 40 be no doubt that all grain will show better weight when tested by the buds! than by the quart, the dilerence, however, in the case of the heaver grains not being great, fout in the case of the heaver grains not being great, fout in the case of oats the jufference is very marked. Every farmer knows that oats falling lightly into a quart measure will not pack meaning as close as when falling into a bushel measure, especially when the oats are not well cleaned. There is no doubt that during the present shipping season the farmers of Canada navelost heavily on their sales of oats owing to the weighing test having been made in an illegal manner.

The system of docking when grain is underweight varies in different localities. In some places a cent is taken off the price for every pound that the measured based when grain is underweight varies in different localities. In some places a cent is taken off the price for every pound that the measured based of red wheat should be 70 cents and the weight 56 pounds, four cents per brishe would be deducted by the bayer. In other places one cent per pound is deducted for the first two pounds underweight and two cents per pound is deducted white winter wheat is declared by section 44 of chapter 25, Statutes of Canada, 7899, to weigh 58 pounds to the bushel, and when a first weight and weight, and here everyes No. 2 price less dockage. We do not charge alignan bayers with analaries, but there is un doubt that the feeling that farmers in many instances have not been treated justly is very wide-that farmers in many instances have not been treated justly is very wide-spread.

To a large extent the farmers have the remely in their own hands. They can refuse to sell by test and unsist on selling by sample. The sample having been inspected by the buyer and a price put upon it, a farmer will know when he starts out with his load just what he will receive for it; and will not be left, as he is now, in uncertainty as to the price until the test is applied. The sample sust, of course, findly represent the average quality of grain. Every farmer should certainly refuse to sell cats by the quart test, and, as we have pointed out, it is only by violating the law that the buyer can test the weight of any graip in that way. If grain is sold by test there appears to us to be no reason why at every warehouse and at every mill the busilel test should not be applied. As a general rule, a farmer would do much better to feed his light grain than to sel it. If he would do this he would receive a retarn from every pound.

TRADE RELATIONS OF CANADA

Suggestions Submitted re. Trade With the Commonwealth by Mr. Mulock to Premier Barton-The Pacific Cable and Its Accompaniments- Arrangements For Conference of Colonial Framiers.

Ottawa, March 27.—A return brought down in the House yesterday contains the correspondence between Hon. William Mulock and Sir Wilfrid Laurier from March 26 to August 6, 1991. The first letter is written from the steamship Ilimlaya at Marsellle on March 26, and contains the account of a conversation which Mr. Mulock had with Lord Strathcona while in Lonwith Lord Strathcona while in Lon-don. This conversation and the subsequent correspondence covers a number of subjects.

On May 20 Mr. Mulock writes from Melbourne, where Mr. Mulock talked with Premier Barton.

On May 28 Mr. Mulock submitted to Mr. Barton a written proposition, containing the following suggestions:

(1) Absolute free trade between the two countries, excepting in respect to Higuors, tobaccos, and, perhaps, a few other named articles.

(2) Free trade in respect to an enumerated list.

(3) Reciprocal free trade on a preferential basis, except as to articles mentioned in proposition No. 1.

(5) Free trade in respect of an enumerated list, and also reciprocal trade on a preferential basis in respect to an enumerated list.

Ho also reviews his letter to Sir Wilfrid in regard to ocean lines.

This section of the Parliamentary return concludes with a copy of the minutes of the Facific cable meeting, conveyed by a letter, dated White Hall, Aug. 14, 1901. to Lord Minto from the Colonial Office. It contains this sentence: Mr. Mulock was one of the witnesses, and gave evidence of the

Mr. Mulock was one of the witnesses, and gave evidence of the intention of the Canadian Government to lay a special cable between Canada and England for the use of the Canadian people.

The next section deals with the correspondence between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Australian Premier, ra the approaching conference in London. Sir Wilfrid aubmits to Premier Barton the following questions for consideration:

mier Barton the following questions for consideration:
(1) Closer trade relations.
(2) Improvement of the mail service by Canada between Great Britain and Australia.

(4) Consideration of the effect on the Pacific cable scheme by the concession granted by New South Wales to the Eastern Telegraph Company.

Mr. Bourassa Resumes.

The debate yesterday was resumed by Mr. Bourassa, who could not see the use of taking a vote of Mr. Borden's amendment because of the prevalence of protectionist sentinezh in Canada. The mere raising or lowering of duties being a detail to be governed by circumstances. As for Imperial relations, he trusted the Prime Minister when he went to the coronation, would impress upon Mr. Chamberlain that Canada would consider no proposals for closer relationship until our various grievances, such as the cattle embargo and the British interference in the immigration question, had been removed.

Mr. Richardson (South Grey) replied in a finished speech. In the course of which he repudiated Mr. Bourassa's statement that the preference had not been appreciated in Great Britain. He favored a stable protection to Canadian industries.

Mr. D. C. Fraser (Guysboro, N.S.) referring to Mr. Charlton, expressed doubts that all that hon. gentleman's legislative efforts in the interest of morality, would excuse his apostacy on the tariff issue.

Mr. Portor moved the adjournment of the debate.

Replying to a question by Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Blair said the corporation of St. Catharines had not been granted a water power privilege from the old Welland Canal for the reason that the Government was waiting the engineer's report. Several questions of minor importance were also answered, and the House adjourned for the day at 6 o'clock.

I have been subject in times past to an attack of backache, and took different kidney pills, but got little relief after long use. This time I got a bottle of Dr. Piccher's Backache Kidney Tablets and they stopped the attack in a burry. They acted far differently and away quicker than anything I over took. Ottawa, March 27.—It is understood that the Dominion Government has returned a favorable ropply to the communication from the Imperial authorities asking whether a mounted force of 2,000 men could be recruited in Canada for service in South Africa. The Government here now awaits a statement from the Colonial Office giving details as to how the force should be constituted.

When that is received arrangements will be made for raising, clothing and equipping the force and appointing the necessary officers. Within a month after the word is given to raise the force it can be fully outfitted and ready to embark. The point of mobilization, it is expected, will be quebec, and the War Office presumably will furnish the necessary transports.

ONE MELVITTEARED.

Turner knew that Melvin was not going to Beckett's Mill. He was as well assured of that fact as he would have been had Melvin told him so. Ho have been had Merviii told him so. He, knew, on the contrary, that he was go-ing to Hi Jenkins' place. Why he was going he did not know further than that he knew the new stranger had something to do with it.

The important information possess

The important information possessed by a little coterie at Beckett's Mill concerning Melvin had not reached Jonathan Turner. In fact, and for a wooder, it had not spread beyond the few persons to whom Sam Morgan had related it that night at Hicks' store.

The reason it had not spread, and the only reason doubtiess, was attributable to Hicks. With an eye single to business he had seen a likely chance to turn a few honest dollars only if they would all keep quiet and patiently await the development of events. Taking the others fully futo his confidence, he had said:

"If that feller's done somethin dret-

he had said:
"If that feller's done somethin dretful for which he has to hide out from the haw—which, of course, he has, or he wouldn't 'a' said so—why, it stan's him, if it ain't out aircady. Now, most

"Jest so," Pap Sampson had agreed.

"I'vo seed them papers a stickin up in the postoffice here lots of times."

"Now." Hicks resumed, "my plan is for us all jest to lay low an keep our mouths shet, not saylin a word of this to nary a livin soul, an wait to see if one of them circulars dou't come along here putty soon 'bout Mr. Melvin, Then when the circular does come we'll jest

They all saw the wisdom of Hicks' plan and readily agreed to it, and for swhile they kent sacredly to their;

awhile they kept sacredly to their agreement. The temptation to talk was great, it must be admitted, but that reward was a greater temptation yet.

So it had come about that Turner was still ignorant of everything concerning Melvin and in forming his opinious was acting altogether on mere surmises. He had never changed from his first formed opinion that there was something back of Melvin that was not exactly right, but he had never succeeded in getting beyond that point. He readily conceived the idea that there was a connecting link somewhere between Melvin and Walte, but what that link was he could not tall. what that link was he could not tell. He had no idea whether the link was one of friendship or enmity, but he was inclined to the belief that it was the former. In fact, he labored under the impression that the two young men had been associated together in the commission of a crime or were leagued together for the purpose of committing some crime at a later date. He did not place their crime or contemplated crime beyond robbery, however, but he fixed it at robbery on a large scale.

When Melvin rode away from the house that night, Turer oeieved ne had gone to meet and confer with Waite, but he was partially mistaken. Melvin had gone to Jenking' place, and commission of a crime or were leagued

Melvin had gone to Jenkins' place, and it was on account of Walte that he had gone, but if his surmises were correct Waite was one of the last men in the world he would care to meet or with whom he would seek a conference. As Melvin had told Mrs. Banks, he

As Melvin had told Mrs. Banks, he' had taken the life of a human being. In the heat of a quarrel he had shot down and instantly killed a young man named Marchand. He justfiled bimself for the act on the ground that he had acted in self defense, and in a way his claim was true. Just at the time of the killing it was merely a question of who could fire first, and if Melvin had not killed he would have hear of the killing it was merely a question of who could fire first, and if Melvin bad not killed he would have been killed. But, on the other hand, Melvin was responsible for the wisunderstanding, for Marchand was seeking to avenge the honor of his sister, whom Melvin had betrayed.

While Melvin might justify his act, he knew public opinion nor the courts would justify it, so he fied from the scene to escape arrest. Having met while she was a girl at school, his first thought when he began his flight was to go where he could be near her. That she had married mattered little to him, except to the extent that it removed her out of his way, for he had no very high regard for marriage nor a very strongly developed sense of honor.

His plan was to induce her to clope with him if possible, and, though she had refused to marry him when she had refused to marry him when she was free to do so, he had no doubt of his ability to induce her now since it had become known to like that see had learned to regret the step she had taken when she had declined him for Sim Banks. If she would clope with him, they would go to some out of the him, they would go to some out of the world place out west and there lose of law to right lis wrongs. From the first Melvin had feared Robert Ministration of the law, and day and night he had been haunted with a dread that that man would have heart the law, and the law had covered his flight well, he knew, but he was also aware of the threless energy and set determination of young Marchand, and this, added to the anxiety a criminal always experiences, kept him in a continual state of uncastness. easiness.

His purpose in going to Jenkins' was to discover, if he could, without making his own presence known, whether the man giving his name as Watte had stopped there and whether or not it was Robert Marchand. The way be had planned to do this was very simple and at the same time comparatively safe to himself.

He proposed to the his horse somewhere in the woods man Jenkins' house, then creep cautionsly forward under the cover of the fences and shrubbery until he reacted a position commanding a view of the house and its surroundings.

its surroundings. He was well aware that it was a uni-If Ie was well aware that it was a uni-versal custom among the people of Possum Ridge to sit out in their front yards after supper on bot summer evenings, and he felt assured that he would find Jenkins and Waite so sit-ting if the latter was there. In this way he could satisfy himself as to whether Waite was the man be feared, then steal softly away again.

whether Waite was the man he feared, then steal softly away again.

And if that man should prove to be Robert Marchand there was but one thing for Melvin to do, and that was to fice from the section. He had that all planned out too. He would return to Turner's for his things, claiming he had received a letter calling him back home, and he would go that night. There would be no waiting for the morrow, not an hour's delay, if Robert Marchand was there.

However, he was saved all the trouble of putting his plans into execution, for as he passed along the road a mile from his destination a voice halled him from the woods, and, looking around, he saw old Hi Jenkins sitting on a log.

"My Lord, young feller," Jenkins said,

"How did you happen to get fast to the log?" he asked.
"Why, I was fixin to split it up for rails," Jenkins replied, "an I'd drove a wedge in, startin a right smart crack in one eend. Feelin sort of thed, I lowed I'd set down on the log to rest, an like a durned fool I set right on that crack. Melvin laughed. The situation was so ludicrous that he couldn't help it. He would have laughed if Jenkins had been dying. There was nothing funny in the situation to old Ei, however, and when Melvin laughed it made him

Melvin drew a sigh of relief and, re mounting his horse, rode back to Tur-ner's. He decided that there was no nediate need for him to take his de parture from the Ridge, so he would remain on a few more days. It would have been better, far better, however, for both himself and others if he had

CHAPTER XIV.

It is difficult for two people to keep . when Pap Sampson advised the men at Hicks' store that night that it would be best for no one to mention to Sim Banks a word about the meeting between Melvin and Louisa, they all agreed with him, and each of them promised not only the others, but himself as well, that he'd abide by that advice, and every man there kept that promise most sacredly.

Yet, for all that, the information they were guarding from Sim reached him in the course of time, as they might have foreseen that it would.

Sam Morgan in an unguarded moment told his wife all about it, but was careful to caution her to mention it to no one. She carried the secret safely in her bosom for a day or two; then, finding it too much of a burden to any longer bear alone, concluded to share it with her very nearest and dearest friend, Mrs. Mann, not forgetting to caution her against breathing a word of it to another living soul.

Mrs. Mann, less gerupulous than ber neighbor or perhaps less afraid of Sim, did not heighte to revent to him the whole story. She so thoroughly desplaced Louisa, for the simple reason that Sim loved her, that she was only too anxious to avail herself of such a propitious opportunity to indure her. Then Sim, the cruel wretch, had coolly scorned her love and humiliated her thereby in a manner that would be galling to the heart of any woman, and she was not sorry that it had fallen in her way to be able to make bim wince, for once in his life, under the sting of the cruelest knowledge that ever falls to man.

the cruclest knowledge that ever rails to man.

She did not stop to consider what might be the result of her act. Meddlers never do. The after consequences of gossip are something with which they are not concerned and of which they take no thought. It was so, in this instance at least, with Mary Mann. It nover once occurred to her to what serious lengths her act might lead, but it is doubtful whether she would have been able to control her forgue even if

It is doubtful whether she would have been able to control her tongue even if she had known.

It was only after an impatient delay of two or three days that she secured an opportunity of speaking with Sim. Then she proceeded to pour into his ears the whole story as Sam Morgan had told it of the store. Sim listened had told it at the store. Sim listened quietly until she had finished, after quetty until she had hisshed, after which be calmly said:

"That is all you have to say, is if?"
"All!" she exclaimed wonderingly.
"My land, aln't it enough?"
"Is that all?" he repeated, with quiet firmness.

"It is," she replied.

"It is," she replied.

"Now do you want to hear what I have to say?" he asked.

Her heart gave a little joyful bound, and a thrill of pleasure ran through her. Sim spoke so quietly, so calmly, that she was sure he was not hurt by what she had told him, and in the space of half a mbute she had reasoned it out that it failed to burt him because he no longer cared for his wife and took no interest in anything she did. She felt assured that what he had to say would prove to be a renunciation of Louisa, and certainly nothing he of Louisa, and certainly nothing he could say would be more acceptable to her, except it were a declaration of love for herself. So softly and demurely she replied:

"If you care to tell me."

"Then listen," be said. "Byery word you have told me is a lie, a willful lie!"

Mrs. Mann staggered back as from the effects of a heavy blow. Sim's words, spoken so quietly, so positively, so unexpectedly, completely disconcerted her. In one breath they had dashed all her newly formed hopes and opened her eyes to the fact that the one great desire of her soul would never be realized. Sick at heart and pale with disappointment, she stared at Sim for a full minute in painful sileuce.

But presently a change came over her, and the paleness of disappointment on the face disappointment of the face disappointmen ment on her face slowly gave way to the flush of anger. If she could love with a passion that but few women know, she could hate equally well. Fixing her eyes on Sim, with such an expression of deadly hatred as he had never seen in any human eyes before

Ordinarily Sim would have been astonished at this sudden and vehement outburst, but at that moment he was not in a state of mind to be astonished at anything. With a wan, weary smile,

"You're sich a sot an determined rooi," Mrs. Mann said, ignoring Sim's last remarks, "that you wouldn't believe a thing ag'in Loueesy if you see it with your own eyes. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, APR. 11th,

THE PARTIES IN ONTARIO.

(Montreal Daily Herala.) The life of the Ontario Logislature expired last Saturday, and an early announcement is looked for of the date of the election which must me cessarily follow vary soon. Indica-tions point to its being held in the last week of May or early in June, at that from this time forward the ceighboring province will ring with the noise of battle. Mr. Whitney, as the Province, has already made arrangements for a series of incetings at the principal centres of popula tion, and we may suppose that, despite his severa becavement, Mr. Ross will also take to the piatform. Indeed, if the issue could be determin ed by a trial of ability on the part of the two leaders, both present on the same platform, the result would probably be very agreeable to Mr. Ross, who has scarcely an equal for Canada in the art of piatform oratory. Mr. Whitney knows that ver, well, and is not at all likely to invite comparisons. The liberal administra-is not nearly so strong in this respect, however, as it was in a for-mer period, when Mr. Ross, Mr. Hards, Mr. Fraser and Mr. Pardee made a debuting team perhaps sever sounded in Onturio. Sir Oliver Mowat could safely impose upon such an aggregation any task that might suggest itself. In the present Legislature Mr. Ross has a considerably greater reputation thus any other member of it, although Mr. Har-court and Mr. Dryden are excellent debaters, and Mr. Latchford and Mr. Stratton are likely to give a good account of themselves in this first general election since they were taken into the cabinet. Mr. Pattullo also, though not in the cabinet, looming up as a figure of provin importance. Og' the other hand Mr Whitney stands almost alone. His principal licutenant, Mr. Foy, while a man of undoubted ability, is not of the sort to become a popular figure, and Mr. Carscaller, the only other man of parts upon whom Mr. Whitney can count, is considerably discrepated in his home section and unknown elsewhere. So far as concerus the personal element, there fore, the liberals have much the bet ter of the argument.

It is not so clear what may be the disposition of the country in other respects. The liberal government has rendered Ontarlo good service It has faithfully administered her al-fairs for over thirty years. In all that time no breath of scandal has touched the administration. The great building in the Queen's Park completed without extras and with-out the opposition being able to take exception to a dollar of its cost, stands as a fitting memento of the men urder ,whose authority it was constructed. The practice of Mr. Ross himself has been to lavite, even to challenge, the fullest investigation of all the accounts of his department, and with that end in view to take case in advance that there is no account to which exception can be taken. And not alone has the public do mair been honestly administered, but every care has been taken to see that expenditure tended, where pos-sible, to the further development of province. For education, for an riculture, for colonization, practically overything has been done that enlightened judgment could suggest. If the Province of Optario is to-day the home of an intelligent, prosperous, or ergetic community, it is largely due to the guidance of this liberal minstry of the last thirty years. It de serves well of the people.

A Point for Municipal Experts.

A member of Kingston City Council Las raised an interesting question and one which involves the valudity of every by-law passed by most; if not all, of the municipal bedies of the province. He delimed that a certain license by-law passed by Kingston Cruncil was illegal because "it was not signed and scaled in the presence of the Aldermen assembled." When it is intended that a measure shall be given its first reading it is customary to state in the motion that "By-law NC.— he reark a third time, passed, signed and scaled," but as a matter of fact the seal and signatures of the Mayor and Clerk are not attached till next day—and sometimes not at all. member of Kingston City Council

Mr. Loy is a Scotch-Canadian and an elder of the Prosbytorian church; Mr. Bergeron is a French-Canadian and a Catholic. The Maal and Empire is happy. At the Deucational Association meeting a teacher read a paper on "The Overloading of the High School Curriculum," in which the convention was put forward that the High schools saught to teach: too much and that the pupil was not thor oughly enough grounded in the sub-jects at the end of the term. ican, Colonial and Gorman, are according to Mr. Rhodes' will is a remarkable and voluminous document. It was executed in 1890. There is a codicil attached on the day of the deceased's last departure from England, and another, cabled from Cape Town, leaves £4,000 yearly to keep up the spot in the Maloppo Hills, where his body is to be burled. The will further directs that a railroad extension bo is to be burled. The will further directs that a railroad extension be made into the Matoppo Itills, so that visitors may go there at the week-end to inspect the majesty and glory of their surroundings.

Mr. Rhodes explicitly such he is to the burled in an aperture cut in the solid rock, surmounted by a brass tablet, bearing the words:

"Here lie the remains of Cecil John Rhodes."

No one else is to be burled there

No one else is to be buried there who has not deserved well of his

John Rhodes."

No one else is to be buried there who has not deserved well of his country.

Mr. Rhodes bequeaths all his landed property near Buluwayo and Salishury (both in Matabeland) to trustees, whom he directs to cultivate the land for the instruction of the people of Rhodesia. His colebrated country place at Groote Schum (not far from Cape Town), Mr. Rhodes leaves as a residence for the "Prime Minister of the Federal Government of South Africa," with £100 yearly for its maintenance.

Mr. Rhodes divides the £100,000 bequeathed to Oriel College into several funds, indicating concistly how he wishes them to be applied, and adds this characteristic sontance:

"And, finally, as college authorities live secluded from the world, and so are like children as to commercial matters, I would advise them to consult my trustees regarding the investment of these various funds, so far as they would receive great help and assistance from such advice."
Regarding the American scholarships, Mr. Rhodes says:
"Whereas I desire to encourage and fester an appreciation of the advantagrs which I implicity believe will result from a union of English-speaking peoples throughout the world and to encourage in the students from the United States who will benefit by these scholarships an attachment to the country from which they have sprung; but, without, I hope, withdrawing them or their sympathies from the land of their adoption or birth."

The will provides that the executors may at their discretion delay resultilishing any territorial scholarships once extablished shall not lapse upon the admission of the territory to statehood.

Another provision is that no student shall be qualified or disqualified admission of the territory to statehood.

Another provision is that no student shall be qualified or disqualified for election to a scholarship on account of race or religious opinion.

Mr. Rhodes desires that the students should not patronize any particular college, but distribute themselves throughout the University.

Trustees are allowed to suspend or remove any scholar at their discretion.

Mr. Rhodes expresses the hope that the trustees will arrange an annual dinner and re-union for all students and scholarship graduates who are able to attend and invite thereto as guests "persons who have shown sympathy with the views expressed by me in my will."

W. T. Stead has written the following:

"The will of Cecil Rhodes is in every respect worthy of its author."

"What renders this will of exceptional interest to Americans is the fact that it reveals for the first time under his hand and seal, that he was no mere British Imperialist, but that he was essentially a citizen of the United States, of the English-speaking world.

the was essentially a Crizen of the United States, of the English-speaking world.

"Mr. Rhodes' first will was made in September, 1877, when he was a young man of 24. At that time he was only beginning to amass the wealth which, before he died, had made him a multi-millionaire, not in deliars, but in pounds sterling. His last will was dated July 1, 1899. But, the two documents are essentially allke in sentiment. They both ombody, in express terms, what was ever the master thought of this master mind, the necessity for promoting the reunion of the English-speaking race.

sity, in whose glories the American descendents of its founders share equally with those who still inhabit the Oid Country, the centre of his educational scheme, and he has left a sum, which may be roughly capitalized as representing $10,000,000 for the foundation of Anglo-American scholarships tenable at Oxford for three years. To his thinking, the University better than any other institution, naturally affords a virifying centre for race unity. It is free from all political complications, and a residential university, with the old traditions of Oxford, seemed to him the best fitted for the purpose he had in view.

the best litted for the purpose he had in view.

In a codicil to his will, Cecil Rhodes settles the Dalham Hall estate on his brother, Col. Francis William Rhodes, and his male heirs, with remainder to his brother, Ernest Frederick Rhodes, and the male of his heirs. In a clause referring to this settlement, Mr. Rhodes expresses his objection to the expectant heir developing into a "lonfer," and says that the essence of a proper life is that every man should have a definite occupation during a substantial period of his career. In the disposition of the Dalham Hall estate, it is provided that the successor to the estate must have been 10 years in business or in profession other than the array, or, in the case of an infant heir, he must onter business and remain there for ten years, othorwise, the entail will terminate. The will guards strictly regainst encumbering the estate.

The Charter Bill of the Montreal Bridge Company the Bone of Contention-The Endget Debate.

Ottawa, April 4.—Lieut.-Col. Sam flughes arose and made a protest against aspersions cast upon Cana-dian soldiers in The London Daily dian soldiers in The London Daily News. The writer of a letter in that paper declared that at Faberspruit the Canadians had stripped the boots and stockings off dead Boers and pulled out their toenails as memen-toes. The statement, Col. Hughes said, was utterly untrue. The Speaker having interposed a point of order the subject had to be dropped.

point of order the subject had to be dropped.

Later in the day he renewed his protest against this libel, and read a letter from an English yeoman published in an English paper, denying the charge, and pointing out that the story probably arose from the fact that the Boers had taken off their boots in order to be able to creep quictly up to the British camp. Hence the story that the Canadians had stripped the enemy of their boots.

A resolution to refer back to the Committee on Railways the bill to extend the charter of the Montreal Bridge Company, which the committee had killed, was moved. After a lengthy discussion, the motion was defeated by 85 to 62.

In reply to the Opposition leader, Mr. Sifton said he expected to introduce a bill during the present session dealing with Yukon matters, and in all probability the bill would deal with representation in parliament, the matter being at present under consideration.

London, April 7.—The South African casualty list issued Friday evening shows that the losses sustained by the Second Dragoon Guards in their sharp reargurd action with their sharp reargurd action with the Boers, near Boschman's Kop, Juring the evening of March 31, were severe. Two officers were killed and vive were wounded, and eighteen men were killed and fifty-eight were wounded.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

200 British Troops Rode Straight Into

Pretoria, April 6.—Details received hero of the rearguard action during the night of March 21, between the Second Dragoon Guards of Col. Lawley's column and the Boers, near Boschman's Kop, show that a force of 200 British, while endeavoring to surprise a Boer leager on a dark night, rode straight into a force of 500 Boers. The Boers were hidden in a drift, and opened fire almost under the legs of the British horses. A florce hand-to-hand struggle ensued, in which both sides freely used the butt ends of their rifles. The British regained the ridge they had just left, and commenced a rearguard action. In the meantime, a strong force of Boers had barred the road of the British camp. The coming of daylight enabled Col. Lawley to see that the Guards were hard pressed, and he despatched reinforcements, with two guns, to their assistance. The reinforcements soon compelled the Boers to retreat.

The Guards had a very hard fight, and were ordered to retire by squadrons. The Boers disputed every inch of the road with the Guards, and continually attempted to rush them, shouting "hands up." At each successive position taken up, the British appeared in diminished numbers, for as it grew lighter the aim of the Boers improved proportionately.

The foilowing incident of the fighting is reported:

Commandant Pretorius, who was captured the previous day in a Cape cart, was in charge of some national scouts. The scouts rode into a party of Boers dressed ib khaki, supposing them to be British troops. The Boers opened fire, and Pretorius escaped in the confusion. One report says he was shot as he fied.

Commandant Prinsioo is also reported to have been killed in the fighting, as well as other Boer officers.

The Feace Mission.

Kroonslad, Orange River Colony, April 6.—Owing to the great distance separating the members of the Transvaal mission here from Mr.
Steyn, the former President of the Orange Free State, and Gen. Delarey, the negotiations between the Boer leaders in South Africa looking to the conclusion of the war made littie progress. It is expected, however, that Mr. Schalbburger and his colleagues on the mission will shortly leave here for a more convenient negotiations.

Amsterdam, April 7.—A correspondent is authoritatively informed that Dr. Kuyper, in his present visit to Berlin, atthough he has seen the Germán Emperor and certain Ministers, is not engaged in making an appeal to the Dewers for intervention in South Africa. The Dutch Prime Minister is, however, extremely anxious to find a basis for negotiations toward the termination of hostilities.

Basket-ball for Women

The game of backet-ball, combining as it does the exercise of both the mental and physical powers, found itstant recognition among the directors of the physical training schools for women, and it may be said to mark the introduction of the true athletic spirit in women's colleges. Basket-ball supplies a loog-felt want and combines the beneficial results obtained from the rope, bar, rugalng, jumping and other gymnasium excretes and spirit of competitive sport. The May Delineator, in the fourth article in its veries on athletics for women, fully describes this game, which is so interesting to both participants and especially fine pictures.

All sorts of surmises are advanced as to the scope of the action at Kleinhardt and the particular parterformed in it by the Canadians, but the only seeming qualification which the orficial cablegram gives to their splendid record as told in the press despatches is the intimation that some of them fell into the enemy's hands. The expression 'released men report two officers dead' would cortainly indicate that some of the British troops engaged were taken prisoners and subsequently set at liberty by the enemy. And the fact that they were able to give the names of two fallen Canadian concades suggest that they were Canadians themselves.

But the general feeling was well expressed in the words which His Excellency the Governor-General cabled to the officer commanding the Canadians: "Hearty congratulations to all ranks on their splendid success. Deeply deplore heavy loss." Personal tributes to the fallen heroes was paid by those who had served with them in the earlier stages of the campaign

Pretoria, Friday, April 4.—The British losses in the engagement in the ueighborhood of Hart's River (in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal), March 31, were three officers and 24 men killed, and 16 officers and one hundred and thirty-one men wounded. The Boers admit that they lost one hundred and thirty-seven men, killed or wounded. The action occurred at Doornbalt Farm, a few miles south of this scene of General Dolarcy's defeat of General Methuen. The Boers, who were commanded by Generals Kemp and Potgleter, attacked with great determination, but the Canadian contingent, which was the last to arrive in South Africa from Canada, and two squadrons of Yeomanry, under Colonel Cockson, and the artiflery and Mounted Rifles, under Colonel Keir, presented such a stout front that the burgirer were finally forced to retreat.

The casualty list shows that the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles had 4 officers wounded.

It is probable that the ofer of the services of the regiment will be recommended to the War Office.

Thay will leave Quebec on the Parisian on June 7, and return on the Tunisian, sailing from Liverpool on July 8. The contingent is the maximum number asked for by the Imperial authorities. The War Office will provide 800 horses, and it is taken for granted that these will be for artillery and cavalry. The contingent will consist of units from every branch of the Canadian military service, including the Northwest Mounted Police. Nothing has been definitely settled in regard to the commanding officer. The Minister of Militia's idea in the organization of the coutingent is to have a body of men that will convey a fair idea of what the Canadian active militia is like. No undue prominence will be given to the permanent force or to any special class of officers.

It is understood that the formal proposal on behalf of the Ottawa

Council of Westminster immediately after the holidays, and that it will probably be accepted. The offer, it appears, has grown out of the suggestions which have been made from to time by the architects who have been outlining a form of decoration to being represented by snow-capped mountains and blocks of ice.

AUSTRALIANS MURDERED BOERS DEWET VERY EVIL INFLUENCE

Results of Lord Kitchener's Searching Invastigation Into the Whole Batter— Five Officers Tried by Court-Martiul-The Sentences Inflicted Upon Thom on Being Found Guilly

-Ne Doubt of Guilt.

London, April 5.—The War Office yesterday afternoon issued an official statement of the facts in regard to the Australians sentenced for murdering Boer prisoners as follows:

"The Bushveldt Carbineers, who were recruited in South Africa, but included other colonials, were employed in July and August in the wildest part of the Transval, 80 miles northeast of Pietersburg, and took a certain number of prisoners. Grave irregularities on the part of certain officers of the corps came to the knowledge of the military authorities in October, and an exhaustive investigation was ordered by Lord Kitchener. As a result of the enquiry dwo officers were tried by court-martial at Pietersburg, in January last, and were found guilty as principals or accessories of 12 nurdors. "Lieuts. Hancock and Morant were murdors.

"Lieuts. Hancock and Morant were sentonced to death, which was carried out. These officers were also charged with the murder of the Rev. C. Hesse. Although there was strong suspicion that they committed the murdor, the evidence was not considered sufficient to justify their conviction.

considered sufficient to justify their conviction.

"Lieut. Witton was found guilty of murder, and was sentenced to death, but there were mitigating circumstances, and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment at penal servitude.

"Lieut. Picton was found guilty of manslaughter, and was cashiered "Major Lenahan, commanding the Carbineers, who became aware of the crimes subsequent to their committal, was convicted of culpable negligence to report#them, and was ordered home to Australia, his dimissal being unnecessary, owing to

"No doubt exists as to the guilt of the accused, whose plea, in extendation, that a number of their corps were ill-treated by the Boers, was not sustained by the evidence at the trial. The sentences were such as would have been inflicted on any officers similarly guilty."

Atlantic City. N.J., April 5.—The beach front between Illinois and New York avenues presents a scene of utter ruin and desolation. Of the many fine hotels, which were situated in the district visited by Thursday's conflagration, there remain standing the unburned portion of the Windsor Hotel, at the board walk and Illinois avenue, and the charred framework of the Rio Grande Hotel on New York avenue. Between these two structures lies a blackened waste scarcely a stick being left to identify any one of the numerous buildings destroyed by fire. The shell of the Academy of Busic remains standing, and this is notable, as the theatre was the only brick building in the burned area.

The pariority of the military men and civilians here expect more from the continual pressure of the troops than from the present negotiations. It is pointed out that once before when hard pressed the Transvaalers showed a desire for peace, but were promptly overridden by President Steyn. Nothing in the present stuation, so far as known, indicates that President Steyn is less irreconciliable than previously. Indeed, the known facts seem to point to a greater determination to continue the struggle.

He gives an account of the after a follows:

"One of their (the Australian) officers, had been murdered by Boers. Shortly afterwards the Australians captured a number of Boers, including one wearing the uniform of the murdered officer. They immediately held a drumhead court martial, found the man guilty, and ordered him to be shot. For this the Australians were arrested in October and tried by court martial. Their sentences, after revision by the Imperial Government, were communicated to them in February. Two of the Australians were shot."

DUNLOP TIRE CO. TORONTO,

TAKEN TO RHODESIA.

After Public Funeral at Cape Town, Conveyed Thither.

Cape Town, April 3.—Throughout the morning a continuous stream of people passed by the coffin containing the body of Cecil Rhodes, as it rested in Parliament House. The funeral procession this afternoon was most inspiring. The coffin was draped with the tattered Union Jack which belonged to Mr. Rhodes, and which he regarded with peculiar veneration, and with the flag of the British Chartered South Africa Company, which went through the fight at Massikessi, and was carried on the "Long Cecil" gun carriage, used at the siege of Kimberley, through the crowded streets to the cathedral. The streets were lined by troops, who saluted the passing cortege. The pall-bearers were: Dr. Jameson, Sir John Gordon Sprigg, the Premier of Cape Colony, and six others. The chief mourner was Col. Frank Rhodes, who walked alone and bare-headed, followed by the other brothers of the deceased and incresentatives of Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner, and Sir Walter Healy-Hutchinson, the Governor and Commander-in-chief of the Cape of Good Hope.

All business was suspended during the funeral, and all the public buildings were draped in mourning.

In front of the cathedral stood a hage crowd, bere-headed, and the building itself was filled to its capacity. The Archilishop end other clergy received the body at the Cape Town, April 3.-Throughout

Letter From South Africa. AN EMILY BOY RELATES SOME OF

HIS EXPERIENCES.

Kept Busy Patrolling, Fighting, Building Block Houses and Burning Boer

ing Block Houses and Burning Boer Homes.

The following brief but interesting letter from Mr. Mitton Conneil, another of our Victoria County boys who is serving his country well and faithfully in South Africa, was recently received by his father, Mr. Mitton Connell, of East Emily, and is taken from this week's issue of the Omomee Mirror;

is taken from this week's issue of the Omemee Mirror;

Potchefstroom, Feb. 1st, '02.

Dear Father,—I think you will agree with me in saying that I am a very poor correspondent. I got your letter along with May's. We spent very little time in garrison,—less than a month. We have been over a good deal of country patrolling and building blockhouses, scrapping now and they, making a few priscners, bringing in refugees, burning houses, etc. Our troop, you know, is less than one bundred strong with about sixty men available for duty, and we have captured about thirty beers and killed several more with four casualties to ourselves. We have a good deal of night patrolling to do. I have spent many a night in the saddle only to flud nothing in the merning. Still that is the way we made our captures.

We have been mounted, at least some, ever sluce we started; my horse unfortunately died a coaple of weeks ago. We lost half of our horses in January from horse sickless, a disease peculiar to this cilmate. We are nearing the end of summer and the most of the fruit is ripe. The weather is not as hot as might be expected in this latitude. The worst feature of this country in summer is the facility with which it can rain irrespective of whether you are under eover or not.

You ask me if we have a chaplain. Perhaps you will be surprised to hear that I have not seen one in the country yet, and as for Sunday, it is like any other day, except when in camp. Trench digging and blockhouse building goes on irrespective of anything, in fact it is necessary. In camp on Sunday when there is nothing else to do, no barb-wire cutanglements to make, or no trenches to dig, perhaps the Officer Commanding will line us up and read a part of the Church of England service and wind up with the national anthem, svery man fully armed and incidentally, it is made the occasion of rithe inspection.

I saw Will Pell two or these months ago. He seemed about the same: He is more winding for inothing else to of the family, Milton.

PERILS OF THE SUMMER SEASON

(Westminster, Teronto.) (Westminster, Teronto.)
Summer has pertis peculiar to itself, and they are sufficiently serious to make forewarning the part of wisdom. Life in Canada is not as eager, as streamons, as consuming as it is in the Unitel States. The northern church. It is something for the minister of a quiet little charge in the country to inive the arbitlition of this clement to his parish. It queetens the thought and disturbs the too placed flow of his congregation's ideal throught and disturbs the too placed flow of his congregation's ideal to greater opportunity.

But there is port in this experience. Summer visitors and holiday-makers are, too often, from the religious peint of view, extremely unsathefactory. One of the most significant and altogether inneutable facts is that many people whose conduct at home is quite exemplary, whose observance of the Sabbath is strict and and whose attendance on the ordinances of religion is constant, behave quite differently at summer resorts. They ignore the church services and are careless about their conduct on the Sabbath. The result is spiritually buriful to themselves, injurious to their associatics, and often domoralizing to the local church. Many a minister and missionary has been grieved and disheartened at scenng his year's work destroyed by the presence and influence of summer visitors. Herein is the peril of the summer scaror.

The warning comes to the churches to make such provision against the coming of these multitudes of tourists that the peril may be averted and turned to the advantage of the Kingdom of God. Church authorities having jurisdiction in Northern Ontario and similar districts where the permanent population is sparse and church appointments of deceive should consuit together so as to avoid unnecessary overlapping at some points and ucclect at others, as has been the case in past seasons.

THE FARMER AND HIS TREES.

(Ottown Free Press.) Some reference was made in the Le gislature not long ago, when the St. Jose Scale legislation was up, to the great want of discretion displayed by formers in the purchase of fruit, or other trees. There has always been a tendency exhibited to deal with this matter in the same way as stock, and the agriculturist has sacruced his best intereses by being content with cheop and misty stuff, thereby de cheap and misty stuff, thereby de-priving himself in the long run of much revenue. No care has been ex-hibited in the purchase of trees, a carelessness it must be conceied, however, bred for the most part of the retire. A certain agency which has accomplished much harm in the rural districts, according to the re-port of the Outerle Agreement of the Outerle Agreemently de-ceived his outstoners but chemical his employers by taking orders for good trees in their name, and filling them with worthless stock purchased else-where. There is on record the story of a furmer buying some alleged

THE DEMAND IS REVIVING AND GOOD ANIMALS ARE SCARCE.

Ready Sale for Good Heavy Drafts

Every business seems to have it line of prosperity, and its times o once came a period during which even the best were sparcely saleable and inferior stock could hardly begiven away. This state of things was due largely to over production, the indiscriminate breeding of un-saltable animals, and the substitution -of electric for horsepower on street cars. The result was that the macontinued in the business became careless in regard to thee sort of

The Draft Horse.

Is undoubtedly the most profitable sort that the farmer can breet. Good heavy horses weighing from 1800 upwards, and of good quality, are likely to meet with ready sale for some time to come. By breeding a good mare to a heavy Clydeslate or Shire stallion, a farmer is reasonably sure of securing a colt that at the good of the lighter breeds cannot be sold except at a sacrifice, whereas on a horse employed at slow work, such as teaming, a blemish is not such a deading a blemish is not such a deading. Moreover, if the blemish is pronounced the farmer will still have a good useful animal for his farm work, and in the case of a mare he can profitably use her for breeding, if the defect is not hereditary. The active, upstanding, Clydesdale type, such as is found in the Highlands of Scotland, is, in my opinion, the most suitable horses for the general farmer to raise. These horses are tractablend as if you have the ready work for any sort of farm work, thus paying for their keep, which the fancy horses of the best type will always sell for the set type will always sell for their keep, which the fancy horses rarely do.

Carriage and Saddle Horses of the best type will always sell for gool prices, both in the United States and Great Britain. We often hear of the high prices paid for a fine carriage team or a hunter, but of curse the farmer does not get prices like these. They are only got after weeks and perhaps mostlis or training and fitting in the hands of dealers. The farmer seldom has the time and the necessary knowledge of training and "fixing up," to produce the finished article. Still the leader, as a rule, pays the breeder at fair price, and so long as he Joes it, it will pay to raise such horses. The best carriage horses are sired by thoroughbred, hackney, and occasionally by coach and standard-bred stallions. The thoroughbred produces the best style of carriage horses, when the mares have sufficient size, and good quality.

Military horses have lately been very much in demand, but there is some doubt as to the permanency of this market, at prices which will prove profitable to the producers. Formerly there were only two classes of horses purchased by Great Britain for military purposes, viz., those for cavalry and those for artiflery. Now however, there is a, third class for monited infantry. This is the lightest class of the three, the animals ranging in height from 14.1 hands to 15.3-1.2 hands, and artillery horses horse form 15, 1-1.2 hands to 15.3-1.2 hands, and artillery horses horses from 15, 2 to 16 hands. Major Dent, who has purchased most of the Canadian horses for South Africa, gives the following description of the qualifications required. The stamp of horse required for artillery purposes is a. Carriage and Suddle Horses bess is a Blocky Sorb of Horse, with as much breeding and bone as possible. The cavalry horse is of a lighter type, with good shoulders, bon and neck, the meanted infantry are miniature lorges. The best stamp I have come across is the French-Cavandian, the only fault in their cases being often a shortmost of rein (neck.) The type of horses for whatever branch of the service required, should be that of the English hunter, with short legs, short cannon bone, good shoulders, backrib and loins, and the more breeding combined with strength the better. What I think are most needed to produce this type are good thoroughired sires, not over 16 hands, compact horses with plenty of hone and action."

manch horses with plenty of hone deaction."

Is highly desirable that none the highly desirable that none thought the highly desirable that none the used. There are far too any inferior horses in the country we and if our farmers breed to wice or cheap purebred stallions, improvement will be possible, e big, sourd, active Clydewinle will boably give the best results or key marcs, and the theoretished warm of any marcs, and the theoretished for breedle to a hankney or, cough stallion, inally, it is of the greatest intunes that the fool shall be well as the best of breeding will avail to suffer for lack of proper feed a care. Good breeding and good ding must go hand-in-hand, if a cess is to be made of the business heres-breeding.

Mount Forest, April 3.—The public services of Hon. James McMullen were fittingly recognized by a complimentary banquet tendered him here last night. It was given by his old political friends, the Liberals of North Wellington, and was a most successful affair. The occasion was intended to celebrate Mr. McMullen's appointment to the Senate, and the men who had so loyally supported him during his long career in the House of Commons met to formally extend congratulations upon his elevation to the upper House. The banquet was held at the Coyne House, the diningroom of which was prettily decorated. The guests, who numbered about 150, were scated at four tables, and the scating capacity of the Liberal Association, occupied the chair, and at the head table were Hon. James McMullen, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Hon. John Dryden; Messrs. F. W. Galbraith, Guelph; George Binnie, South Grey; John Anderson, Arthur; James McEwing, Drayton; Mayor William Gruer, Rev. Dean O'Connell, Rev. W. G. Hanna, Rev. C. H. Emerson and Mr. James McCall, Mount Forest. The assemblage was most representative, and included many sturdy Liberals who had fought the battles of the party in this district for years past, and who looked forward with confidence to the political struggles of the future. Senator McMullen was cordially greeted, and throughout the evening an enthusiastic tone prevailed. An excellent repast was served, and an extensive program of toasts was begun. Many bright speeches week made, and the visitors brought complimentary messages to the guest of the evening. Mr. McMullen, in acknowledging the kindness of his friends, briefly reviewed his course in Parliament, and the efforts he had made to advance the cause of good government in Canada.

Letters of regret at inability to attend were received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Hon. R. W. Scott, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. James Sutherland, Hon. William Faterson and others.

Winnipeg, April 4.—Further returns of voting on the Liquor Act referendum received to-day increase the total vote to the neighborhood of 39,000, with a large number of the distant rural municipalities to hear from. The unreported places are expected to split about even, leaving a straight majority of about 6,000 against the enforcement of the act. Tache and Desalaberry give large majorities against the act. The official majority for Winnipeg is 3,406 against. The estimated totals now stand: Against the act, 17,464; for the act, 11,137; majority against 6,327.

I found the temperance people working as hard as those on the liquor side, but Neepawa went against the act."

when questioned as to whether the Liquor Act would be repealed, Mr. Davidson replied: "I suppose there is no other course open. There will not oven be a percentage to consider in the matter."

Hon, Hugh J, Macdonald says: "I am not surprised at the vote, when the position taken by the Dominion Alliance is considered."

TO IMPROVE THE CHEESE,

Special Meeting of Belleville Board Held to Discuss That Important Subject.

(Believille Dally Outario.)

The Believille Cheese Board met inis afternoon at 2 o'clock in the City Holf for the purpose of discussing the means of getting out a better class of cheese for the English market and the best way of covers. ket and the best way of curing the choose after it is made. Mr. Glics, the president of the Board presided. There was a large attendance of factorymen and chees

ment that Belleville was one of the best localities for conducting the experiment in Ontario. but they gave us the go-by. He did not want Belleville to lose her reputation and if the factory men wanted to use his cold storage plant they could do so at very little cost. He did not think the cost would amount to over an eighth or a quarter of a cent perpound. They could find out from the buyers whether the cheese was giving better satisfaction, and if they were getting a better price after the experiment hind been given a trial. They would not lose anything.

Mr. Watkin, the veteran cheese was only a secondary consideration. Three was one thing certain and that was that the patrons were not handling the milk with proper care. The man who milks the cow and they man who handles it before it got to the factory were the first that should receive attention. That was the foundation of the cheese-making and as it was necessary to have a good foundation under a house it was necessary to have a good foundation under a house it was necessary to have a good foundation under a house it was necessary to have a good foundation under a house it was under the cheese industry. It did not natter how the cheese was cured it it was not handled properly before it got to the factory. Our factories will kave to have proper curbag rooms

On Sunday hist Mr. Alex. Murray, an old bachelor, Iving alone on the west shore of Sturgeon Lake, near Ball Point was found dead in his room. The manner of his death was no surprise to the community, os Mr. Murray was a sort of reclase, as the people as much als possible, and especially also own relatives, who live in the township of Thorah and who urged hem many a time to go and live with them, where he could be decently taken care of. His neighbors kept a sort of irregular watch over the old man to see that he was slright.
On Sunday two young boys happaning to pass near the house ventured to try the door, but found it looked, as likewise a second door. Looking through the bedroom window they discovered the body of the old man lying on the floor near the bed. They promptly gave the alarm and Caroner Dr. Wilson was sent for. On his arrival the door was burst epen, and an examination of the parameter and body was made. It was extent to the Dr. and all present that the deceased had been dead for some days. It booked as if he had been either drossing or undressing when the death grip took bim e used very likely by the miserfly way he fed and clothed himself, and illow the filth that surrounded him. The brdy was fearfully emachated.
Under the circumstances the coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary. The death grip took bim e used very likely by the master of the brain and cold weather that came a short time ago. They had commenced work in the irrelations by the rain and cold weather that came a short time ago. They had commenced work in the large he fived for a considerable time.
Some of the farmers in this section received a rather say check in their calculations by the rain and cold weather that came a short time ago. They had commenced work in the land thinking that spring was here for a certainty. Only the "knowing caes' kept their bands in their peak is, and with a sage look on there faces, watched their neighbors pushing the season. However, spring seems to have come now for a certainty.

Mr. Bourassa.

Mr. Bourassa seconded the motion. He did not agree with all Mr. Charlton's remarks, but he went half way to meet Mr. Charlton because he believed his position as a Canadian representative demanded it. He had always taken the position that Pritleh supremacy must be brought about in South Africa; and the best way to bring it about was to act according to the best of British traditions, respect to minorities and generosity towards foes. He claimed that Canada was within hereights in offering her advice to Great Britain as to the terms of settlement of hostilities in South Africa. Such an expression of opinion would mely the British Government. As for the statement that the magnanimity of Britain towards the French in Canada after 1763 was the best guarantee of magnanimity in South Africa, the fact seemed to be lost sight of that, if England had conquered in Canada, she had been conquered in Canada, she had been conquered in Europe, and the settlement of that treaty was in the nature of give and take. tion. Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had no doubt claimed in the Tritted States until An all It amend be a counteract in induce probably to the prostition the British colonists in those colonies asking for the exacting conditions and uphold the integrity of the British Empire. Therefore she was in postition to ask that an honorable peace he obtained. There should not be a different settlement with the Transval Boors and the Boers of Orango River Colony and the Caperafirkanders. The latter were an honorable foe and should not be treated as a rebel to hang in chains. The war was one of British against Dutch for the supremacy in South Africa, and a harsis settlement now would only be delaying the establishment of peace and prosperity in South Africa.

As a parellel. Mr. Charlton cited the liberal policy pursued by Great Britain towards the 60,000 French subjects in Canada after its cession to England by the King of France Other parallels, he said, were the treatment of the Dutch settlers in New York and the treatment of the Southern belligerents by the North after the United States civil war. In the latter case there had been no disfranchisement of a rebel. In the interests of a united South Africa, the same policy should be pursued by Great Britain now. Mercy and magnanimity and amnesty were the pown or that should be exercised to secure this result.

Mr. Jabel Robinson offered another amendment, which, he said, he thought would fill the bill. It was to the effect that it was not advisable to give advice or instructions to the British people on this occasion, but to rely on their wonted magnanimity and generosity in dealing with the Boers.

This amendment to the amendment was dealared out of order.

This amendment to the amendment was declared out of order.

Mr. Demers, speaking in French, took issue with Mr. Oliver as to the policy of hanging rebels. He said that if any rancour against Britain existed in Quebec, it was because of the hanging of 12 rebels in 1838.

Leave to withdraw his resolution was not granted to Mr. Charlton, and it was declared lost without even dividing the House.

In his address to the Liberals of South Ontario, at his nomination meeting on Saturday, Hon. John Drymeeting on Saturday, Hon. John Dry-den referred to his investment in a posture ranch he Dakota. He said that her late Majesty Queen Victoria, King Edward, other members of the royal family and Sir Charles Tupper had held investments in the United States and nothing had been said against it. Mr. Foy had said it was particularly wrong for the Minister of Agriculture to be engaged in such an undertaking. The speaker held of Agriculture to be engaged in such an undertaking. The speaker held that there was nothing wrong in what he had done. He had only made arrangements to ship his cattle there to pasture until they were sold; the grass here would be saved in any case, As to the argument thet it would hurt immigration, Mr. Dryden pointed out that since the investment was first made thousands of farmers had come to Canada from heart was as heavy as lead. His was the calmness of hopeless despair and complete resignation.

"I see my duty," he repeated over and over, "an I'll do it if it kills me." His face was white, but there was a firm, set expression there which showed that his mind was made up to a purpose and that there would be no wavering in fulfilling it. Like his class in general, he was slow to see his duty, but once having seen it there was no shirking it and no faltering in its discharge.

He believed all Sam Morgan had told His believed all Sam Morgan had told him. In view of all be know he had no shadow of reason for doubting. It was true, every word of it. Yet before he acted he would hear it from Louisa's own lips. He even hoped—hoped against hope—that she might in some way satisfactorily explain it all. Whatever she said he would believe. He would take her word against all the world.

When he reached home, he went di-When he reached home, he went directly to her. He noticed that she looked more sad and worn than he had ever seen her, and a feeling of pity and compossion stirred his heart to the yery bottom. In his sympathies his own sufferings held the second place. His wife's were first.

Even as he stood before her he hestated to speak, but not for long. Duty with him was duty, and it must be done, no matter how bitter the cost. With a quiet armness that was sur-

The squire shrugged his shoulders and turned back to his desk. A little curtly, it seemed to Sim, he said:

"Tell me what you want in this deed, an I'll go to work an make it out."

Instead of replying, Sim drew nearer to the squire and placed his hand on his shoulder.

"Squire," he said pleadingly, "I hope I ain't gone an made you mad. God knows I never meant to do no sich a thing, an I'm sorry if I have. I don't want to cause no more hard feelin's thau I can help, an specially now, when I feel like I ain't got no friends on earth."

The deeds were made, and Sim signed them. Then he went back heme, stopping at Hicks' store on the way to settle a little account he had there.

"Ever'thing must be left in as good shape as possible," he said to himself, "so Loucesy won't be pestered no more than can be belped."

When he was back in his room, he took a plece of paper and a pencil and sat down at the table and wrote a note to his wife. It was slow and laborhous work, and it took him a long time to put down the few words he had to say. With each word kis heart grew heavier and sadder, for that was the last thing he was ever to do for Louisa, and when it was finished his life and hers would part, never to meet again.

he was ever to do for Louisa, and when it was finished his life and hers would part, never to meet again.

"I am goin away," he wrote, "an I'll never see you no more an never no more stand in the way of your happiness. He pinced the deeds on the acue, then folded the note carefully and laid it on top of them. Then be took from his pocket all the money be had and placed it in a little heap on the note. When it was all done, he stood for a little while looking at it, then turned away, saying to himself:

"It ain't much, God knows, but it's all I can do, an mebby Loueesy'll understand."

After that he walked back and forth across the room for a long time, and his

"No, I'll not do it." he said. "I'd give "No, I'll not do it," be said. CHAPTER XVIII.

A MATTER OF INTEREST.

Never since that day on which the battle of Lexington was fought had there been such intense excitement on Possum Ridge. The people, forgetting their everyday duties, collected in little groups and all day long talked in low, husbed tones of the tertible thing that had happened. A thousand questions were asked, many of them of a most fivolous nature, but propounded in all serfounces; a thousand surules were made, and those who happened to passess a fragment of information relative to the one subject of absorbing interest the point of hazard and the only that the likely place, and two or three wearly likely place, and two or or three wearly likely place, and two common ever transplite, a major is an event of suppose importance. It is sufficient to claim the entire and undivided attention of the people for a day and to remain the chief topic of conversation for a week or even a month. It is an event which marks an epoch and from which time its reckoned.

Lying in state in a little warcroom just off Hicks' store was all that remained of James Melvin. Jim Thorn in passing through Sim Banks' wood had found the body lying across a little footpath, in almost the same spot where Melvin and Louisa had met. Thorn, in a mild state of excitement, had appeared at Hicks' store to ref. it his find. Hicks and others had repaired to the scene and had removed the body to town.

Soon the news spread, and in an in-the scene and had removed the body to town.

Soon the news spread, and in an incredibly short time everybody at Beckett's Mill knew of the tragedy. Then the people came to see and to ask questions. Of course every one, man, woman and child, had to pass through the little wareroom and look on the lifeless form. Then, having looked, they gathered in little knots to talk it all over.

Jim Thorn, having been the fortu-nate one to make the find, occupied the pedestal of chief importance in the vil-lage that day. Wherever he went, whichever way he turned, there was an eager group about him, listening anxiously for every word that fell from his lips. Time and again, and always to interested listeners, he repeated the story of the flad down to the minutest details. And the story Jim Thorn told was this:

details. And the story Jim Thorn told was this:

"When I got up this mornia, I says to my woman, says I, 'Luchdy, I guess I'll jest step over to Joe Beckett's pasture an look at that calf of Joe's.' Joe an me's been on a trade for a right smart while, an he's been a-wantin me to take a calf he's got over thar. Waal, I put on my hat an went over to Joe's, but Joe's woman told me Joe wa'n't at home, but that he'd gone off to look for a pig that'd strayed away. So I jest went an looked, at the calf, mane up my nind Joe wanted too much for it, then started back acrost the woods for home. Waal, I'd walked a right smart piece an was a-goin along with my head sorter down, a-thinkin 'bout somethin, when all at once I kinder glanced up, an right thar before me, not six feet away, laid that dead man."

"Lord, but I bet you jumped an hollered!" some one exclaimed.

"Lord, but I bet you jumped an hol-lered!" some one exclaimed.

Thorn gave the speaker a look of mild contempt.
"I bet I never," he replied. "I never moved a inch, nor I never give a squark." squeak.

'Waal, I bet you was skeered anyhow

"No, sir, I wa'n't skeered, not nary a grain more than I am this minute." "Did you tech him?" somebody ask-"No, I didn't tech him, but it wa'n't 'cause I was afeard to. I 'lowed mebby it mought be ag'in the law, an I wa'n't figgerin on gittin into no trouble

There was a short pause, after which some one said impressively:

"Lord, jest to think of a feller walkin up on to a dead man like that! My land, I wouldn't 'a' done it for nothin on earth! I bet I'd 'a' been skeered, an I'd 'a' jumped an hollered, too, an I reckon I'd most broke my neck a-gittin away from thar. Lord!"

"Land of gracious," another exclaimed, "if that had 'a' been me in place of Jim Thorn, I'd 'a' been skeered plumb out of my skin, an I'd jest 'a' tore the garth up an knocked the bark offen all the trees round thar a-gittin out of them woods."

If the truth had been known, the only

If the truth had been known, the only

If the truth had been known, the only reason Jim Thorn didn't knock the bark off the trees getting out of those woods was because the bark was too tight to be knocked off. But that was something no one save Thorn knew, and be had no idea of mentioning it.

Then Jim Thorn had to go out to Sim Banks' woods and show where the body had been found and explain in detail just how it had lain. He had to show the exact position of the head, the feet and the hands and describe in full the precise attitude of the whole body.

After that he had to show just how he had made the discovery and how he had acted and what he had done and everything about it. All this he did by going through a rehearsal of his movements.

going through a rehearsal of his movements.

He placed a stick across the path where Melvin had fallen to represent the corpse. Then he went a little way off and, turning, walked back slowly, with his head down, just as he had been walking that morning. At a certain point he raised his head. His eyes fell on the stick, and he stopped short in his tracks. For a minute or so he stood there, looking eatmly on the stick, then quietly walked by it on his way to the village.

All these things the curious crowd drauk in with open mouthed wonder, leaning eagerly forward and craning their necks in order to catch the smallest and most unimportant detail of the movements.

Then, baying absorbed the last particle of information Jim Thorn possessed, the crowd fell to speculating regarding such things as Thorn could not explain. Sam Morgan started it by

While the interested crowd was still talking a stranger appeared among them. It was Mr. Waite. No one there knew him, for none of them had ever seen him, and the moment he appeared all conversation ceased, and everybody stood with his eyes fixed inquiringly on him. Looking coolly around, he asked:

"What's the occasion of all this excitement?"

"What's the occasion of all this excitement?"
There was a momentary silence, during which every one turned his eyes on Jim Thorn. That worthy, understanding what was expected of him, stepped forward and said in turn:

"Why, Lord, 'bout the murder."

"That's the man."
"Well, well! Do you know anything of the particulars of the murder?"
Then Thorn embraced the opportunity for which he had been waiting and proceeded to repeat the story he had been telling all day. He even went through the pantomime of his discovery of the body, not forgetting to show how calmly he had viewed it and how fearlessly he had passed by it on his way to the store. PROHIBITION AND PARTY CAPITALISTS

The south Perth prohibitionsts on April 15th took a sensible view of the stuntion. They passed a resolution not to bring out a prohibition candidate refused to promise to suport prohibition if the peeple carry it through the referendum. They also passed the following resolution: "Biast this convention of temperance workers, while differing in their lews as to the referendum, call upon fall who brileys in the cause of temperance to vote for the referendum, and pledge themselves to all the effects in their power to carry it, as being the most feasible way of obtaining prohibition, which we all ecck." If there must be a fight made to win the Kingdom of Heaven, why should there not be some effort made to win prohibition, which will be, by he means, the Kingdom of Heaven unless there is a cufferently substantial majority behind it to cusure its licetive enfercement.

Do carnist and sincore temperance people shrink from a necessary con-test, such as accompanies all re-forms? One of the old bymu writers-probably isanc Watts-lu reference to the struggle necessary in the christian life, asked, with saintly sar

An effort is required in any event But is the effort required unreasonable? A COMMISSION OF EXPERTS

The Government Will Institute Enquiries and Will Deal With the Matter Next Year-The Yukon Territory - Mr. Siften's Bill Effecting Important Reforms-Private Members' Day in the Commons.

Ottawa, April 22.—Vesterday was an interesting private members' day, ending with a three-hours' discussion on Mr. Lancaster's railway crossing guards bill, which was lost in the committee stage.

Mr. Oliver moved to send back to the Standing Orders Committee the report throwing out the petition for a bill to incorporate the Bishop of the Orthodox Russo-Greek Catholic Church. The petitioner is an alien living in a foreign country (in San Francisco), who wished to be incorporated in Canada as the Bishop of North America and the Aleutian Islands.

was in order, and it carried.

To Amend Yukon Act.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill to amend the Yukon Territory Act. It effects several important changes in the administration of the Government of the territory. Hereafter in ease of conflict between an order by the Governor-General-in-Council and an order by the Governor-General-in-Council and an order by the Commissioner of the Yukon, the latter will prevail. The bill also gives to the local council of the territory the control and regulation of the sale of intexicating liquors. The control of manufacture is retained in the Federal authority. The third section of the bill increases from two to five the number of elected members of the Yukon local council.

ed members of the Yukon local council.

In answer to Mr. R. L. Borden, the Minister said there would be five elected and five appointed members of the council.

A bill to amend the Dominion Lands Act, which was also introduced and read a first time in the Northwest, shall be subject to a provision that the Territorial Government may open a road through them not over 66 feet wide nor embracing more than 5 per cent. of the land without paying for right of way.

Another bill empowers the Legislative Assembly of the Territories to pass ordinances in regard to such road allowances.

Amend Alien Laber Act.

Amend Alten Labor Act. 4

Amend Alten Labor Act. a bill to amend the Alien Labor Act. Its object is to transfer jurisdiction under the act from the Minister of Justice to the Minister of Labor. If passed it will make it clear that, notwithstanding the right of private prosecution, it shall still be the duty of the Government upon complaint of the labor unions, to send commissioners to investigate complaints of violation of the act and report upon the same to the Government. The bill was read a first time.

Bills Passed.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:
Respecting the Montroal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal Company.
Respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.
Respecting the Lake Champlain and St. Lawrence Ship Canal Company.

what is the date of such representations?

The Premier's reply to questions one and two was: "Yes, they will be laid on the table of the House." To questions three and four the answer was: "Parliament has been made aware that a conference is to take place in London this summer on the invitation of the Secretary of State for the Colonies between the Imperial authorities and the self-governing colonies of the Empire. In respect to the imposition of duties upon grain and flour, communications have been and are still being exchanged on the subject between the two Governments, but in the present stage of the negotiations it is not expedient to bring down any correspondence relating thereto until such conference has taken place."

Busia and Inget Shooting.

Lieut.-Col. To a Sister at Stratford—His Impression of the Country—Thought the War Would Soon be Over.
The following letter, taken from the Stratford Herald, will be read with interest by the many Lindeay friends of the late Capt. the late Mrs. Geo. Malcolm, wife of the Science Master in Stratford Collegiate Institute, who died a few weeks age, after a brief liness, leaving one son, named Lindsay. The letter, is as follows:

In my last I said we had arrived in Cape Town. We remained eight hours at anchor in Table Bay, when ye stagted for Durban. It was one of the fluest sights I ever saw!—Table Mountain with its "table-cloth" we were especially fayored as it is rot often seen. We also saw found in an allow the following the shore of Table Bay at the foot of the mountain and looks to be a very pretty place. It was especially fine at night, as they have a great many electric lights. We left it at 0.30 at right. The coast was very barren and rocky until within a short discussed to be a time grazing country. We were about five miles out from Port Elizabeth, where it is seened to be a time grazing country. The uext place we passed was East London. The country is very fine London. The country is very fine London. The cape for 14,000 inhabitants. The next place was Durban, it is quite a sized place and has lots of business. Owing to the war hundred to the construction of the town we were too busy loading our horses on the cans. BABY CONSTIPATION

Can be Cured Without Resorting to Harsh Purgatives,

Constitution is a very common trouble among mants and small chillerem—it is also one of the most distressing. The cause is some derangement of the digastive organs, and if not promptly treated is liable to lead to serious results. The little victim suffers from headache, fever, pain in the stomagh and sometimes wontting. While in this condition neither than bor boby's mother can obtain restiti steep. If proper cape is taken in feeding the child and Baby's Own Tablets are user, there will be no fromble from this disorder. Mrs. T. Ouymer, London, Ont., says; "My baby was a great sufferer from constipation. She cried continually, and I was aboutworn out attending her. I tried several remedies, but none of them helped her if ill I procured some Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets worked wonders and now she is in the best of health. I can row go about my work without being disturbed by buby's crying. I consider Buby's Own Tablets a great modeline, and would advise mothers to keep them in the house for they will save 'laby from much suffering by ouring and preventing the minor allments common to itenatis and small children.

Mr. W. J. Cairns, of the local G. T R. stall, left for Montreal Montag R. staff, left for Montreal Montagy evening to attend the funeral of his mother, who died very suddenly on Sanday at noon. They call Sir Michael Hicks-Beach a Cobdonite free trader, but it must be admitted that he is a better protectionist, from a miller's point of view, than Sir Leonard Tilley was. Cur arowed protectionist Government in 1879 put a duty of 15 cents a bushal on wheat and a duty of 50 cents a barrel on flour, the barrel of flour requiring five bushels of wheat. This made a discrimination of 25 cents a berrel against the tabulation untile. Sir Michael has discriminated to the extert of 11-2 cents a barrel in favor of the British miller, by making the flour tax more than the wheat tax. Of coarse, Candian millers of the protectionist perseasion will be tickled, for initation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Mr. Pattulle has learned the lesson taught by Ontario's experience with steem railways, and if he less on taught by Ontario's experience with steem railways, and if he had and his way there would have been better anfectuands against undus powers and privileges of electric roads than the province now possesses.

The Chippawa Indians of Rama formerly occupied the lands about Lake Sinece, Holland River, and the unsettil country in the rear of the Home District. General Parling reported of them, in 18.28, that they had expressively a strong desire to be admitted to Christianity. In 1830 Livetonant-Covernor, Sir John Colborne, collected them on a tract on the north-west shore of Lake Simeco of 9.800 acres in extent, where two elefted a road telegen that Lake and Lake Huron. LINDSAY, FRIDAY, APRIL 25, '02 HON, G. W. ROSS IN LINDSAY.

We are pleased to be able to an-mounce that the Hon. Mr. Ross will allress the electors of this town and section in the Academy of Music on Thursday evening next, the first of May. He may be accompanied by one of his colleagues—probably by Hou.

Mr. Koss is no stranger in Lindsay. Omogh this will be his first public appearance here at a political meet-ing as Premier of Ontario. The ocing as Fremier of Ontario. The observation will be one of great interest to electors of all classes and of all shades of opinion. The best way to get a seat will be to go early—and then note early—for Ross.

Though Mr. Ross is admittedly one of the best public speakers of the cay, he will have to deal with and arrange are many those while its many than the property of the cay, he will have to deal with and arrange are many those while its many than the cay where while its many than the cay where where the cay is the cay in the cay in the cay in the cay is the cay in the cay in the cay in the cay in the cay is the cay in the cay is the cay in the cay is the cay in the cay in can, be will have to deal with and enlarge upon too many subjects to be at his best as an orator merely. He will have to speak as a legislator, as an administrator, and as a progressive statesman. As Treasurer of the Province he will have to deal with some financial questions.

The Ontario Government has such a fine and successful record that Mr. Ross is not on the defensive. He is progressive and aggressive, "We continue the successive that is progressive and auggressive. "We "are," he says, "where you have "placed us for the last twenty or "thirty years. You have given as your support and contidence, and "we have fried to descrive it. We have descrived it, or you would not have returned us again and again. "The Opposition have no good relegation to complain. You have returned them to opposition for the past "thirty years, and you will do it usual and again, no doubt."

with reference to the present po-litical situation in Ontario Mr. Ross can say, with a great English states-ann and orator, "the flowing tide is with as," and "the obling tide is with them,"—the Opposition, for Mr. Ross, in the opinion of careful judges, stands to add considerably to his parliamentary majority, and the Opposition stand to lose. Mr. Ross represents Progress and Oppesition stand to lose.

Mr. Ross represents Progress and Prospecity. His watchword is to Build Up New Ontario and to give new life to Old Ontarlo.

Mr. Ross will perhaps be on the defensive on one point. As we stated in a previous issue, he will have to defend and explain the tax on the "big cerporations," which Mr. Whitney be vigorously condemned and so solemnly promised to sweep away. We faw the rich artisans of Liudsay, and the wealthy farmers of Ops and Emily, rolling in the lap of ease and luxury, have a deep and tender sympathy for the dust-begrined and brow-sweating "big corporations," who, worn down to skin and bone with cutting off interest coupons and packing away the "uncarned increments," will have to contribute the tax imposed on them by the hard-hearted Ross administration. Like Daniel Webster or Moses, Mr. Whitney, when at Lindsay, smote the rock of popular sympathy with his good forefinger of scorn and copious streams of crocodile tears gushed forth! We trust, therefore, Mr. Ross will have a clear and satisfactory explanation and defence of this tax, so odous to Mr. Whitney, If the has, would it be judicious to place the destinies of this province in the control of one pledged as Mr. Whitney is destinies of this province in the con-trol of one pledged as Mr. Whitney is to subordinate the best interests of Outario to those of the big corpora-tions and to lighten the taxes on very tich men who enjoy enormo, edvantage in the often wholly untaparticular question should not fail to attend the Liberal meeting on Thorskay evening, May 1st.

BUILD UP ONTARIO.

Hon. C. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, and Mr. Newton Smale, the Liberal candidate, will address a mass meeting in the Academy of Music, Lindsay, Thursday Evening, May 1st.

HONESTY, EFFICIENCY, PROGRESS.

In the din of political battle which will soon be raging there will be a good many secondary issues exploited to duray away the attention of the electors from the real, vital, fundamental factors which go to make up good government. No country or province in the world case point to as clean, as faithful and as able a government for such a long period as the Liberal party has given Ontarla the last thirty years. That period as the Liberal party has given outurle the last thirty years. That, after all, is the Liberal party's claim for the conewal of the people's confidence; that, after all, is the vitally important consideration in this clartion.

First, the government has been nonest. There has bever been the slightest shadow of proof that any Minister profited financially in his dealings with the provincial affairs entrated to him. There has never been any proof that in the sixty millions that has been expended, taking the past eighteen years only, one dollar of it has been expended for a corrupt purpose. In that sixty millions the Opposition has only divided the House on half a million, principally for new effices, or three quarters of a cont, of the dollar. The commussion of financiers appointed when Mr. Ross assumed office reported that the methods of bookkeeping were exactlent, and exhibit the provincial transactions in as full details as thosey of an ordinary financial institution. The province has a surplus of two and a half millions, its rate of expenditure per head of population compare favorably with that of other provinces, and its financial position is the best in the Dominion. Compare favorably with that of the conservatives at Ottawa, who astounded the whole world by the corruption revelations in 180 Lody last his slanderous statements of the Mail-Empire and Mr. Whitsoy in comparing the Ross Government to Tammany, and said: 'Make a careful examination and a strick, innest comparison and you will find that the administration of the best state in the wior is corrupt and vide compared further, that in all Camada, in all America, there is no other state, city or province where public affairs are as clean as in our province.' Is a light thing that such a testimonial can't be given Ontario's administration for the restimonial can't be given Ontario's administration and restriction of used to go beyong the Ontario Agricaltural and other systems and methods are made the naw of the ordination of the province by Sir Oliver Mowad and his successors has drawn forth warm encomiums from other countries, our expenditure is proportioned to our income; the men who administration for his province where public affairs are our expenditure is proportioned to o trol, and ready to encourage devigement in Ou as well as New Ontario?

However, the fundamentals of good Lovernment. Is the Liberal Government artified to a renewal of your confidence on these essentials? We do not claim that the Liberal Governments and the administrations have been perfect, nor that there is no room for differences of opinion as to some of their measures and details of their policy. We do not say either that the province would go to the dogs were Mr. Whitney returned to power; no party has a divine right to rule, nor does any party have a monopoly of the brains and patriotism of the country. But the Conservative record in Ontario lass been a series of graye blunders—on provincial rights, Separate School legislation, on New Ontario development, on the O. A. College for instance—and the Conservative party in Ontario has not yot put forth the man and measures that afford the moderate prople of Ontario warrant for expecting a clean, consistent, efficient poley at their hands. Mr. Whitney is not occeptable within his own ranks, thought they have now closed up for that fight, while Mr. Ross carries the fullest confidence of his party.

H. I. SKY, (fill len'y, progressiveness that affect in party.

fullest confidence of his party.

H. n sty, effl len'y, progressiveness
-these are the vital things in good government, no matter what side issues are dinned into your care. And the Liberal party may well feel proud of the grand service the Liberal leaders and organization have given the people of Ontario the past thirty years in these respects, and may, with all confidence and justice, ask a renewal of the support of the great, determining, moderate force which rules elections.

Tried and Trusted and the Uncertain-How the Government Has Built Up Ontario-The Govorament Leader, Mr. Ross.

Toronto, April 19.—The Ontario elections with be held on Thursday, May 29, with nominations a week cartier. The Order-in-Council was signed yesterday by Sir Oliver Mowatt, Licutenant-Governor.

The lesues (tenty Deficed.

signed yesterday by Sir Oliver Mowat, Lisutemant-Governor.

The lesues Clearly Dedocd.

Toronto, April 19.—It is announced that the general elections for the Provincial Legislature will be held on May 29, and the electors are asked to remow the confidence they have wisely reposed in Premier Ross and his colleagues.

The issue is between the experienced, ed and the inexperienced, between the tried and trusted and the uncertain. Mr. Whitney, who is once more appealing to the Province as leader of the Opposition, has now the temerity to differ from the Government on a very few lines of policy, and on these lines he is wrong. He would remove the tax on financial corporations, levied by the Government as an eminently fair revenue measure. In many other vital matters he practically accepts the Ministerial policy. No doubt he fancies that he would walk faithfully in the footsteps of the Ross Ministry if successful in attaining power, but there is no adequate reason to make experiments.

The policy of the Government has been conspicuously successful not only in saving and conserving our inherited wealth, but also in its progressive development. In the older and settled parts of the Frovince trade and industry have been slimulated by the bost possible methods. As soon as the time became ripo for the development of new Ontario the Ross Ministry rose to the occasion, and we have not only the establishment of gigantic industries, but a growing source of public revenue. Dr. Jamieson . 1. B. Lucas growing source of public revenue. The way the Liberal Ministers resisted all demands for the disposal of this public heritage in the hope of premature development proves them worthy to be classed as able and farseeing statesmen. This territory, described to be a source of wealth for years, would have been surrendered by the Conservative leaders of Ontario to please their party allies at Ottawa. This magnifying of the party contest—this elevating of it to the dignity of an end in itself rather than a means of improvement—seems a besetting weakness of Mr. Whitney and his followers. The electors realize more fully than the active Conservative politicians the importance of a sound and stable Provincial administration. Did they magnify party interests, as Mr. Whitney and his immediate followers do, the Province would have met financial disaster long ago.

Our school system, our municipal ty interests, as Mr. wittingy and his immediate followers do, the Province would have met financial disaster long ago.

Our school system, our municipal system, the civil law, the improvement of agriculture, the care of the afflicted and the lightening of public burdens are among the most important matters that now engage the attention of the electors, although such things may not appeal so strongly to the imagination as the more showy department of public business. The electors of Ontario appreciate the need of discretion in committing their heritage to the care of public men, and they can be trusted to sustain those whose ability, firmness and discrement have been proved by the test of experience.

Mr. Ross very particularly deserves the support of the Province of Ontario. Canada has few more eminent public servants. He has been throughout all his public Hie a strenuous Canadian and an eloquent exponent of the British spirit of Canada. He is a national rather than a Provincial statesman. No other figure in this Province stands out with such distinctness, and in any Parliament in the world he would take a foremost position. We believe the people of Ontario of all classes recognize his great qualities, and will take care on May 29 to continue in his hands the vigorous policy of development upon which he has entered, and give him full opportunity for the display of that great resource and capacity which has already proved of such signal benefit to this Province. addinand ... Ottawn, April 17.—After Tuesday's bill-dress debate on the Imperial budget, yesterday's proceedings were closing in interest, and last evening the attendance was exceedingly small. Hecruiting in Ontario and the eastern Province is provided and the eastern Province is provided and the castern Provinc ing to prevent speculation in railway charters.

An act introduced by Mr. McCarthy has for its object the securing of the better inspection or hides.

A bill, introduced by Mr. Silton, to mend the Immigration Act, gives the Covernment authority to prevent the landing in Canada of discased immigrants.

A bill was also introduced to increase the salaries of two stipendiary magistrates in the Yukon to $4,000 per year, with $1,800 for expenses, and to provide for appeals to the Yukon Court of Appeals from decisions of the Gold Commissioners; also to provide for appeals from the Yukon Court of Appeals being taken to the Supreme Court of Canada.

A bill to further amend the Canada Evidence Act, introduced by the Minister of Justice, limits to five on each side the number of expert witnesses who may be called, unless the judge thinks that, under the circumstances, more are required.

each side the number of expect with nesses who may be called, unless the judge thinks that, under the circumstances, more are required. Charles Marcii (Bonaventure) asked if the Government had received a resolution of the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Ottawa, protesting aramist the action of Magistrate O'Koefe, in refusing to hear the ovidence of a witness in French. The Minister of Justice replied that the Government had no control over Magistrate O'Koefe or the proceedings that took place in his court.

In Committee of Supply, Mr. Fisher explained that the item of $80,000 was the usual vote for experimental farms; it had been found insufficient, and he would ask a further sum in supplementary estimates.

The following private bills were read a third time and passed:

Sits, —Four years ago I got a severe attack of solatic Rheumatism which laid me up and almost crippled me. I was recommended to try your remedy, and after taking it for three days I was able to greenee my work, and by using two bottles was completely cared. I have had a couple recurrences since then but your remedy has never failed to relieve and cure me. I can recommend it with confidence to all suffer, ers from rheumatism.
